STRYKER OPENS CROSS-QUIZ OF DAPPER DIXIE

Demands Copy of Dewey's Report on Visits of Lawyer to Showgirl's Apartment.

LASHES AT TESTIMONY

Hines Defense Seeks to Break Down Story of Payments to Tammany Leader.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Booming-voiced Lloyd Paul Stryker, defense counsel in the policy racket conspiracy trial of James J. Hines, today began a scorching cross-examination of J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, ace prosecution witness.

Snapping his questions, Stryker tore into Davis, the fallen one-time "kid mouthpiece" of the $20,000,000-a-year policy racket dominated by the late Dutch Schultz.

Pale But Calmer.

The dapper Dixie was pale but considerably calmer than when he began his low-voiced testimony "putting the finger" directly on Tammany District Leader Hines yesterday.

Stryker immediately called on District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey for a copy of the prosecutor's report to Justice Ferdinand Pecora on the much-discussed excursions of Davis from Tombs prison—interludes when he visited Hope Dare, his sweetheart, a red-haired former Broadway showgirl, at her apartment.

Contents of the report were not made public.

Stryker suggested through a series of question that Davis naturally wished to make the acquaintance of a prominent man like Hines — countering Davis' own story that he had been ordered by Dutch Schultz to "develop" his friendship with Hines in the hope that the Tammany chieftain would help the racket mob.

Paid 'At Least $40,000.'

Davis has already testified that he paid Hines at least $40,000 from October, 1933, to July, 1935—Hines, the accused political "fixer" for the Schultz syndicate.

When Davis, a college graduate who became in turn an underworld princeling, a disbarred lawyer and an informer pleading guilty to the indictment naming Hines, started talking yesterday in his thin piping voice, every ear in supreme court was attentive.

The once-dapper racket lieutenant recounted events which—if true — have affected not only Hines' chances for liberty but, in

5 DIE IN SLIDE

15 Others Trapped in Quebec by Avalanche.

QUEBEC (Canadian Press)—A cliffside avalanche, loosed by violent rains, plunged down on a crowded four-story apartment house in a Quebec suburb today, killing at least five persons and leaving an estimated 15 trapped in the ruins.

At least eight other deaths were attributed to the same rains. Six persons were drowned when swollen waters washed a house into the Portneuf river at Portneuf, 40 miles west of here. Two died in the derailment of a Montreal-Quebec passenger train, caused by a washout.

The apartment house tragedy occurred at St. Grefoire De Montmorency, six miles east of Quebec, where the landslide, at 4:15 a. m., tore the year-old, partly-brick building from its foundations.

HERE'S ONE WAY TO FIX A CLOCK

Janitor Uses Wrench, Crowbar To Do Job In Courthouse.

EUGENE, Ore.—(AP)—When the clock in the Lane county courthouse stopped running an expert started repairs by removing a cogwheel and assorted metal.

During the expert's absence a janitor walked in with wrench and crowbar. The clock began ticking.

The expert fears damage because of missing parts, but the clock runs merrily on—showing the correct time.

STUNG AGAIN

48th Wasp Does Stuff a Bit Late, After 47 Others Had Finished.

OMAHA, Neb.—(AP)—Two-year-old Chic Goodman knows now the meaning of "stung again."

Chic prodded a nest in a drain-pipe and a doctor treated him for 47 wasp stings. He went with a photographer to demonstrate the prodding, learned one wasp had missed the first time.

His "sting" total rose to 48.

SWEEP CATTLE EVENTS AT FAIR

Mansfield Entries at State Expo Capture 8 Firsts and 14 Seconds.

Cattle entries and milkmaids from the Mansfield area walked off with honors yesterday at the Ohio State fair at Columbus, with the Raemelton and Maxwalton farms, Mansfield, taking eight first and 14 second place awards between them in the livestock exhibits.

Miss Dorothy Doggett, Ashland, winner in a preliminary milking contest, will compete with five other girls tonight for the state champion milkmaid title. To be eligible for the championship, Miss Doggett pailed 13.85 pounds of milk in three minutes yesterday.

Miss Susan Kaufman, Millersburg, won second place in the milkmaid's costume contest.

With 19 Guernsey cattle entries, the Raemelton farms captured five blue ribbons, six seconds and nine third prizes.

The Maxwalton farms, southeast of the city, producer of Shorthorn cattle, won three firsts, eight

CHARGE AGAINST HOLT KIN FAILS

Indictments on Forgery Counts Are Found to Be Faulty.

FAIRMOUNT, W. Va.—(UP)—Two indictments charging Mathew S. Holt, brother of U. S. Sen. Rush D. Holt, W. Va., with forging WPA checks were dropped today after Federal Judge Harry S. Watkins sustained demurrers to the indictments.

U. S. District Attorney Joseph Gibson admitted to the court that the indictments, returned by a grand jury at Clarksburg, W. Va., were faulty and declared the demurrers should be sustained.

When the indictments were returned, Sen. Holt charged the action against his brother was part of a scheme to "shut me up." Sen. Holt is an outspoken opponent of the New Deal.

Persuasive Power of Bookkeeper Too Much For Bandit

CINCINNATI—(UP)—The persuasive powers of a 25-year-old bookkeeper were credited today with thwarting the plans of a bandit bent on robbing the Bradford C. Poole Leather Goods company.

Mrs. Evelyn C. Willis, the bookkeeper, convinced the bandit that no money was in the company safe. He then asked her to hand over her purse and a sapphire ring. She told him the purse contained only a dollar and that the ring had only an imitation gem.

"I was only joking, anyhow," the intruder said and turned and left the offices.

Mrs. Willis said later there actually was no money in the safe.

Dr. Lawance was bound over for trial after a two day hearing and was held without bond.

2,500 Look Over Reappraisal Figures But Only 30 Protest

While any indication of a tax increase usually stirs a storm of protest, attaches of the county auditor's office said today that only 30 Mansfield property owners had filed written protests against new appraisal values on their properties.

More than 2,500 residents have called at the auditor's office or written for their new valuation figures which were established in a reappraisal completed recently by Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and his deputies.

A number of persons who complained of a slight increase in their property valuations were satisfied when the purposes of the reappraisal were explained, the auditor said.

He added that the complaints probably will be investigated within the next two weeks by the county board of revision, made up of the auditor, County Treasurer John E. Kolb and C. L. Mitchell, county commissioner.

Properties of the protesting taxpayers will be viewed and an attempt will be made to effect an agreement that will satisfy the property owner, Wolfe said.

The reappraisal, required every six years, boosted the county tax duplicate about $5,000,000, with valuations increased about 6 per cent. Valuations in Mansfield went up $2,000,000.

EUROPE LOOKS TO BAVARIA, UNITED STATES

Waits Fuehrer's Reaction to Stand in Czech Crisis, American Stand.

HENLEIN TO SEE HITLER

Britain Hopes for Statement From Roosevelt, Concerned Over Food Supplies.

(By Associated Press)

While Fascist Italy today took drastic anti-Jewish action in its new campaign "for the defense of the Italian race," Europe's eyes, searching for omens of war or peace, turned today toward Berchtesgaden, in Bavaria, and the United States.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler was at Berchtesgaden, presumably pondering two questions posed before an anxious Europe. They were:

1. What will the outcome be when the issue between the Czechoslovak government and its Nazi-supported, autonomy-seeking Sudeten German minority reaches a showdown?

2. If Chancellor Hitler of Germany is dissatisfied, will his decision mean war or peace?

Confidence Returning.

However, confidence seemed to be returning that Europe could put the brakes to her slipping security.

Sections of the British press praised the United States' interest in the issue and one newspaper, the influential Yorkshire Post, predicted President Roosevelt might send a warning to Hitler of "the dangers of seeking a violent solution."

Having completed his whirlwind inspection of German frontier defenses, the fuehrer returned to his mountain home. Thus the stage was set for two vital conversations with him.

Awaits Henlein.

Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten Germans, was on his way to see Hitler, his self-avowed protector, while a search still continued in Prague for a compromise between the minority and the Czechoslovak government.

Henlein and Hitler were expected to thrash out the minority situation in light of the Czechoslovak government's new offer.

Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, was said to be seeking an interview with the fuehrer.

Hitler turned his attention to the series of speeches he is to deliver at the annual Nazi party congress at Nurnberg beginning next Monday. It was expected he might then disclose Germany's intentions in the situation, which

JOHNSON GIVES 3RD TERM VIEWS

Says Roosevelt Will Run In 1940 If He Thinks He Can Win.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Should conditions in 1940 convince President Roosevelt he would be elected to a third term, the chief executive will seek it.

This was the opinion today of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator who in a radio broadcast stated "precedent means nothing to Mr. Roosevelt." Discussing the possibility of Mr. Roosevelt seeking a third term, Johnson said:

"If, as the time approaches, he thinks he can surely make it nothing could stop him. But if developments in the meanwhile make it doubtful, nothing could persuade him."

Offers Wallace Plan To Cut Wheat Surplus

Hanley Would Have U. S. Limit Amount of Flour Made From Grain.

A plan for solving the surplus wheat problem in the United States by government restriction of the amount of flour extracted from wheat was proposed today to Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, by T. J. Hanley, veteran Mansfield miller.

In a letter to Secretary Wallace, Hanley suggested that the federal government take over the milling business for one year, and require each milling firm to extract not more than 20 or 21 pounds of flour from a bushel of wheat.

A bushel of grain normally produces about 40 pounds of flour, Hanley explained.

The Mansfielder's plan calls for resale of the by-product of the wheat to farmers as feed at a price equal to that obtainable for corn at point of production. He proposes that the price of meat cattle be reduced accordingly to enable the poor people of the nation to buy meat at a lower figure.

Would Absorb Surplus.

"If we would extract only 21 pounds of flour from a bushel of wheat, the flour requirements of the United States would absorb all of the surplus wheat now available, and we would have no more wheat problem," Hanley said in his letter.

He pointed out that the total indicated yield of winter and spring wheat in the nation this year is 955,989,000 bushels, which would make 102,427,000 barrels of flour at 21 pounds per bushel. That amount of flour, he said, would just supply the estimated needs of the American people.

T. J. HANLEY

"The plan would furnish 98,018,550 tons of extra mill feed, which would make an excellent animal feed when mixed with corn," Hanley said.

Hanley offered to make a trip to Washington to explain his plan in detail if the secretary of agriculture is interested in the proposal.

The veteran miller recently returned from a six weeks' trip to Alaska where he studied the farm problem at the new colony set up by the federal government.

13 Held In Tire Ring That Took 'Orders,' Then Stole

Gang, Jailed by Police, Broke Open Box Cars Loaded With Mansfield Tires, Delivered to 'Customers.'

Smashing of a band of youthful automobile tire thieves which took "orders" for sales first and then broke into freight cars to fill them, was announced today by Police Chief M. K. Bates.

Operation of the gang over a period of three months landed 13 persons in jail and resulted in the recovery of much of the stolen property which the chief said was valued at several hundreds of dollars.

Customers Held

Five of the persons arrested were charged today with receiving stolen property and the eight others accused of stealing and peddling the tires, will be charged later today with breaking and entering, Bates said.

All of the tires stolen were in the process of being shipped by rail to customers of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Chief Bates said those jailed today on charges of receiving stolen property were:

Sam Brucato, 23, rear of 268 North Main street, two tires valued at $17.96; Christ Chokreff, 38, of 213 North Diamond street, four tires valued at $38.25; David Amato, 22 of 118 Orange street, four tires valued at $39.25; David Inscore, 38, of Mansfield R. D. 1, four tires valued at $38.10; and James Baker, colored, of 247½

STORM KILLS 34

Tokyo, Yokohama Struck by Typhoon, 15,000 Homeless.

TOKYO—(AP)—At least 34 persons were known to have been killed and scores of others were missing today after a 75-mile-an-hour typhoon that caused heavy damage in Toyko and Yokohama.

Meager reports over crippled communication lines indicated heavy property losses outside Tokyo but casualties, apparently, were comparatively small.

The typhoon roared northwestward over the Japan sea toward the mainland of Asia. Meteorologists said it might change its course, however.

Police estimated 15,000 persons were homeless in Tokyo alone as the terrific winds flattened many homes.

LOYALIST MINES HALT FASCISTS

Insurgent Fortifications Wrecked, Big Advance Stalled.

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier—(UP)—Loyalist forces exploded mines beneath Nationalist troop concentrations and drove deeper into insurgent-held territory in southwestern Spain, a government communique said today.

Six mines were set off in the vicinity of Castuera, wrecking insurgent fortifications before that strategic town and causing heavy casualties, the communique said.

Reports of both sides indicated that the Insurgents finally had succeeded in checking the full force of the Loyalist advance.

Shoots 77 To Lead Senior Golf Tourney

Zanesville Man Cards 35-42 to Set Pace as 11th Annual Event Opens.

WESTBROOK COUNTRY CLUB—A brilliant 77, featured by a sub-par 35 on the first nine holes, gave D. E. Carey, of Zanesville the early lead as almost 100 members of the Ohio Senior Golfers association gathered at Westbrook today to start their annual tournament.

Close behind Carey came another Zanesville entrant, Floyd Hull, who carded a 78, finishing with a 37.

They were easily the class of that part of the field which had finished by 1 p. m. today.

Carey got a specacular 35 on his first nine, adding six pars to two birdies on the first two holes. He went one over par on the ninth, and for the first nine holes had taken but 10 putts. He one-putted every green but the eighth. He took a 42 on the second nine, having a little trouble with his iron shots.

Hull took a 41 on the first nine.

10th Tournament Here.

Today's tourney was the 11th annual one of the association, and the 10th consecutive event to be held in Mansfield.

Play will be over 36 holes, with the final 18 scheduled for tomorrow. Only golfers who have passed 50 may belong to the association.

Former Governor George White arrived shortly before 2 p. m. to be initiated into membership and play his first round of senior tourney golf.

The golfers will dine and elect officers at the club tonight. E. M. Ayres, Zanesville, is president and Ed Baxter, Mansfield, is secretary-treasurer.

Before the tourney is over, a new champion will have been crowned. E. W. Phelps, champion, has moved to the west and will not participate this year.

Frank H. Pelton, Shaker Heights, champion of 1935 and 1936 was on hand however, and was expected to make a serious bid for the title. He has been playing the best golf of his career, and only recently won the Shaker Heights club championship.

Following are the cards of the early finishers today:

Class F (50-54).

C. D. Bostwick, Pataskala.... 83
J. J. Dolan, Coshocton 98

CABINET TAKES ACTION

Affects All Jews Who Have Come to Italy Since 1919, Including Citizens.

(By Associated Press)

ROME—All Jews who have settled in Italy since Jan. 1, 1919, today were ordered by cabinet decree, to leave the country within six months.

The decree applied even to Jews who have become Italian citizens, because citizenship conferred since that date was revoked.

The edict was made applicable to Italy proper, Libya and the Aegean isles. No mention was made to Italian East Africa.

Haven In Africa.

Italian East Africa—Ethiopia, Somaliland, Eritrea—may prove to be the haven for most of Italy's expelled Jews.

Jewish refugees from other European countries have found the doors of other lands closed.

The decree was issued after a cabinet meeting at which Premier Benito Mussolini presided. It did not show the number of Jews who have settled within Italy in the past 19 years but the total Jewish population has been estimated at 44,000.

Returns from a census of Italian Jews less than two weeks ago have not yet been announced. The newspaper Il Tevere, however, indicated 70,000 had been counted, many more than had been expected.

No official information was available to show the number of Jews who would be affected by the decree but observers esti-

Takes Up 'Dare,' Jumps From Third Deck of Steamer

John B. "Jack" Lake, 17, of 424 Shepard road, didn't swim home from a lake excursion to Detroit yesterday, but he swam a part of the way and he hadn't arrived yet today.

Young Lake, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lake, either jumped or fell from the third deck of the steamer, Put-in-Bay, as the boat left Detroit last night, and swam to shore through the Detroit river.

His mother told The News-Journal today that she had a telephone call from him, reporting that he was safe and planned to visit with his cousins in Detroit before returning to Mansfield.

An Associated Press dispatch said that Lake jumped from the boat, fully clothed, on a "dare". His mother said he told her he slipped into the water while scuffling on the deck.

Capt. John Peterson of the excursion steamer, reported the incident to the Detroit river lighthouse and proceeded on the return trip to Sandusky.

The youth's father is superintendent of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company.

Marked Business Gains Noted As Sales-Jobs Drive Closes

Mansfield's "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign, started Aug. 1 and concluded yesterday, brought a "marked improvement" in business as compared to July of this year, R. G. Fensch, general chairman, said today following a survey.

Some stores reported an increase in business of as high as 30 per cent, and others had increases of from 10 to 20 per cent above the preceding month, Fensch said.

He contended that the advance in sales was "exceptionally good" when the fact is considered that August is a vacation month when sales generally show a decline rather than a swing upward.

Fensch added that "while the campaign succeeding in finding thousands of hidden dollars, its most significant effect was in "creating confidence and in raising the morale of the community."

The active and actual campaign has come to a close but the effect will continue to be felt for many months, he said.

An unusual phase of the campaign here was the house to house sales solicitation campaign staged by 35 Mansfield college youths. Since tried out here, this solicitation method is being carried out in other cities where similar campaigns are being conducted.

Defeated M'Adoo Attacks $30 California Pension Plan

ASSERTS STATE FACES RUIN IF PLAN WINS OUT

Calls Measure Cruel Delusion of Deserving Old People; Tydings in Action.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO — Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo, defeated for re-nomination in Tuesday's Democratic primary, predicted today that the $30 weekly pension plan advocated by his successful opponent would "ruin California and defeat the Democratic party if it advocates it."

McAdoo had retired to his Santa Barbara home. Endorsed by President Roosevelt and a 100 per cent New Dealer, he was bitter over the victory of Sheridan Downey, also a "100 per cent" New Dealer.

Calls Plan Delusion.

"I cannot support a cruel delusion of old and deserving people as this measure undoubtedly is," McAdoo said.

He did not indicate who he would support in the November general election. Ray L. Riley and Philip Bancroft, in a close race for the Republican senatorial nomination, are both outspoken critics of the New Deal.

The pension plan which became a major issue in the California primary will be submitted to the voters at the general election in November.

Most political observers agreed that McAdoo's defeat was to be blamed principally on his opposition to the pension plan. Downey was one of its chief supporters and assured voters that if ultimately elected to the senate, he would continue to be.

McAdoo was soundly beaten.

The latest tabulation, with only a few more than 2,000 of the state's 12,438 precincts unreported, gave: Downey 401,693, McAdoo 282,659.

REVIVES COURT BILL BATTLE

HYATTSVILLE, Md.— (U.P.) — Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.), revived the supreme court reorganization controversy today with charges that New Deal senators had sought the resignation of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes as a condition for acceptance of a compromise.

In a campaign address for renomination, Tydings, whose candidacy has been opposed by President Roosevelt, said last night that he, as spokesman for senators opposed to the president's court bill, had turned down the proposal and that the death of Senate Leader Joe T. Robinson then precluded the necessity of the bill's opponents seeking a modified bill.

Confesses Killing Salesman, Charges He Disgraced Sons

EAST LIVERPOOL — (AP) — Frank Moore, 56, jobless painter, occupied a cell today after confessing. Police Chief Hugh McDermott said, that he killed August C. Fischer, 49, because "he came between me and my wife and brought disgrace on my two sons.

Moore pleaded innocent to a first degree murder charge, and was held to the September grand jury without bond.

Fischer was shot dead yesterday as he answered a knock at his back door. Four revolver bullets entered his body.

MANSFIELDER'S FATHER DIES

Albert D. Neuman, 80, Dead At Lima, Was Crestline Native.

Albert D. Neuman, 80, father of Howard Neuman, 587 Park avenue west, died Wednesday evening at his home in Lima following a brief illness.

Mr. Neuman, who was born in Crestline, had lived in Lima for the past 50 years where he was vice president of the Central Building and Loan company.

Surviving are his wife, Clementine; four daughters, Mrs. Mary Sprague of Charleston, W. Va., Mrs. Simms Oliver of Cincinnati, Mrs. Margaret Maus of Lima, and Florence Neuman at home; a brother, John of Lima, and one son, Howard of Mansfield. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning. Burial will be in Lima.

An art display in the main lobby of the Citizens National bank is attracting attention, not only because of the brilliant colors, but because much of the display is the work of Frederick F. Crouse, 62 Crouse street, and for a number of years has been identified with nationally known business concerns as a commercial artist. His cover designs and illustrations in brilliant colors, have been used in magazines and brochures, and the originals of several of these are on display at the bank.

ROB IN CANTON

Bandits Quietly Steal $2,600, Make Getaway.

CANTON—(U.P.)—Two employes and a customer of the Home Saving and Loan company here were forced into a washroom today by two robbers, who then took $2,600.

The loan company is less than two blocks from the public square. The robberyl was engineered so quietly that not even those passing on the sidewalk were aware of it.

Miss Margaret Strassner, assistant cashier, who was forced into the washroom with another employe and the customer, said the men made no attempt to enter the bank vault but took what money was lying outside.

PAVES WAY FOR MORE WPA JOBS

Enlarged Sidewalk Program Expected to Add at Least 50 to Work Rolls.

Decision by city council to permit relaying of flagstone sidewalks in Mansfield opened the way for employment of at least 50 more WPA workers on the Mansfield public works program, Glenn Weller, city WPA engineer, said today.

Approximately 50 men are now employed on new sidewalk construction jobs.

The engineer said that WPA headquarters at Columbus will be asked to increase the work relief quota here.

"It will require some time before the city will be ready to open the flagstone relaying program on an extensive scale," Weller said, "but when the program gets under way the present force of sidewalk workers can be at least doubled."

Recommendations for work on flagstone walks will be made following surveys by Todd Patton, city sidewalk inspector.

In approving the plan to include the alignment of flagstone walks in the city's program, city council Tuesday night authorized an assessment of two cents per square foot to defray costs of the work.

CLEVELAND AIR RACE FLIERS EXPECTS SPEED MARKS TO FALL

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Aviators who measure their livelihood on a miles-per-minute basis are convinced that mechanical improvements of the past year will result in new speed records in the National Air races.

The men who engage each other—and possibly death—in annual competition for air speed supremacy agreed today, while preening winged chargers for the week-end classic, that hitherto impossible marks are in prospect in the 300-mile Thompson and 200-mile Greve events.

Earl Ortman of Los Angeles, air race veteran, remarked after qualifying trials for the top-notch speed features: "There's no question that the 264-miles-an-hour Thompson record set in 1936 by Michael Detroyat of France will be smashed this year."

Roscoe Turner, Chicago ace, qualified two powerful ships for the $45,000 Thompson and the $25,000 Greve yesterday. The dapper flier himself averaged 281.250 miles an hour in two trips around the 10-mile course. His second plane, with Joseph Mackey of Findlay, O., at the controls, averaged 261.438.

Ortman, holder of an international closed course record of 265 miles an hour, made in the Pacific races last May, qualified both for the Thompson and Greve with an average of 270.473 m. p. h.

ASK JURY PROBE

Pair Held in Connection With Burglary Bound Over.

Arraigned soon after charges were preferred, Joe Yuncker and Earl Smith, North Franklin avenut, were held to the Richland county grand jury by Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch late yesterday in connection with the three-month-old burglary of a Mansfield residence.

Yuncker, charged with breaking and entering, and Smith, accused of receiving stolen property, both waived preliminary examination and requested grand jury investigation of the charges.

Yuncker is accused of breaking into the residence of Max Mosberg, 300 Ruth avenue, where $80 in cash, three guns and a watch were stolen on May 26

Smith stands charged with receiving some of the stolen property.

Judge Kalbfleisch fixed bond of $1,500 in each case.

UNIONS STAND FIRM AGAINST PAY CUT PLAN

19 Brotherhoods Oppose Lines' Reduction Demands: Further Negotiations Expected.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO — Committeemen of 19 railroad brotherhoods distributed ballots today to 928,000 railway employes for a vote to determine whether they should call a nation-wide strike in protest against a proposed 15 per cent wage cut—approximately $250,000,000 a year.

Such a strike would paralyze all of the major lines in the nation's railroad network However, before the dispute reaches a showdown, there will be months of additional investigations and negotiations and it is unlikely that the controversy will reach the stage of an actual strike.

Orders for the vote were issued in conferences of 1,000 general chairmen, representing 18 brotherhoods in the Railway Labor Executives' association, and representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen which is acting independently in the controversy.

Mediation Board Fails.

The action followed and announcement that the national mediation board, which had been meeting with the groups since Aug. 11, had failed in its efforts for a settlement.

The railroads have insisted repeatedly throughout negotiations that the cut is necessary to save them from bankruptcy. The unions have just as steadfastly refused to accept the reduction.

Arbitration would have been the next step in the machinery set up by the railway labor act of 1922 but, although the carriers were willing, the brotherhoods refused to follow the procedure. Their refusal ultimately will make it necessary for a presidential fact-finding commission to investigate the dispute and submit a report. In the meantime the carriers must remain status quo for 30 days.

The commission's recommendation is not binding legally on either party but the theory is that public opinion will compel the parties to accept. Under provisions of the act, it would be late in November or early in December before a strike could be started.

PLEAD GUILTY

Mansfield and Ashland Youths Held to Jury in Theft.

Robert Dilgard, 22, who gave his address as 315 East Fourth street, Mansfield, and Robert Ryder, 22, of Ashland, pleaded guilty to a breaking and entering charge before Police Judge C. W. Chorpening in Ashland today. They were bound over to the grand jury with bond for each set at $1,500.

The youths were arrested yesterday through fingerprints obtained from an adding machine which they allegedly attempted to sell to a Mansfield concern. The adding machine was stolen from the Ideal Metal Craft company, Inc., of Ashland, on Aug. 12.

Dilgard was arrested by Mansfield police yesterday and turned over to Ashland authorities.

DAUGHTER OF M'ADOO TO WED

Granddaughter of President Wilson to Marry French Musician.

SANTA MONICA, Cal.—(INS)—A romance born of a mutual love for music will culminate in the wedding of Ellen Wilson McAdoo, daughter of Senator William G. McAdoo, and William A. Hinshaw, young French musician, it was learned today.

The wedding, according to Miss McAdoo, will take place in a church here Sept. 13.

After the wedding, the couple will make their residence in Kansas City where Hinshaw has been engaged to play in the symphony orchestra.

Miss McAdoo, granddaughter of the late President Wilson, was married in 1934 to Rafael Lopez de Onate, an actor, and was divorced from him in February 1937.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Dies Un-American Quiz Is Hunt For Reds, Nazis; Why Not Admit It?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Every so often the United States congress, observing a suspicious rash on the hide of the nation, makes a political Wassermann test to determine whether the country has become infected with communism. This has been done before, and at times the patient has been in a high state of alarm while waiting for the verdict, but, happily, the results have been negative.

Now the symptoms are out again, and the Dies committee on un-American activities decided that inasmuch as the two maladies are almost alike it would test for nazism at the same time. Probably it is nothing worse than poison ivy, but it does no harm to check up

Both diseases are subtle and great mockers up to the point where the patient, if not treated, is just about to collapse. Both pretend to revere the United States constitution while working for its destruction, and both invoke democracy for protection from its defenders. Both result in butchery of persons and liberties, both are anti-Christian, utterly ruthless and cynical and devoted to the belief that any treachery is justified by the end. One spirochete is red, the other black; that is the only difference.

The hearings thus far have served at least one good purpose in familiarizing the public with the term "fellow traveler." Up to now this has been a trade term of the double-dome periodical press, and the common public has had no pat name for those who for lack of determination or reasons of cunning remain outside the official fold of the Communist organization, but tag along doing the Communists' dirty work in the guise of progressives and reformers.

Of course, there has been much indignation among the Communists, who point out that theirs is a regular political party, forgetting that by similar cunning a Nazi might easily organize a legal Nazi party within the wide limits of the American constitution. The Nazis might develop an auxiliary of "fellow travelers," too, and probably will, for that matter, for they have imitated the Communists in so many things, and vice versa, that rivalry is their only quarrel now.

The Dies inquiry has been called a Red hunt, and, far from denying it, if I were a member of the committee I should admit as much. It is a Nazi hunt and a Red hunt; that is the committee's duty and purpose, and it is a patriotic work. I am also an enthusiastic believer in Red baiting, being one of those who are damned tired of affected patience and forbearance under the most licentious baiting by the Reds. There is plenty of legitimate material with which to bait them, and there is no better source than a congressional inquiry.

Mr. Dies is being baited by the Reds now for exposing their activities in the CIO and in the moving picture industry, of which they make boast under some circumstances but deny under others. He would be a fool not to bait them back by revealing their methods and purposes and their subservience to Moscow, all of which are good, honest baiting material and shouldn't be hard to produce.

The Communists and their fellow travelers have been aggressive, overbearing and pernicious in the CIO and proud of their power up to the point where Dies took them at their word and set out to prove it. At that point, however, the Communists and fellow travelers became mock modest and derided the very idea that they, being so few, could have had any influence among so many. They aren't that way in union affairs, however, and Mr. Dies is indirectly responsible for the smoking out of one CIO leader who finally had to declare a belief that Communist Russia represents "the greatest effort for human betterment which has been made in history." Such a believer would seem eligible to join the party the more directly to assist this greatest effort for human betterment, but it is still libelous under some conditions to charge an undeclared person with outright communism. Their beliefs disgrace them. Strange people!

The Communists, again like the Nazis, believe that those who are not for them are against them—a status which should be highly acceptable to all who believe in the American form of government, rather than the Russian or German, as the greatest effort for human betterment that has been made in history.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Irene Castle's in town. If you've got a date tonight to truck over to a Big Apple contest, that won't mean an extra snap of the fingers to you. But it will to your Ma and you Pa.

And pretty soon it'll mean things to you, too, because they're making a movie about Irene's life. And just to be sure you'll go see it, they're putting Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire in it.

Fred's in it because it's also about Vernon Castle's life — the story of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, dancers de luxe of the immediate pre-war era

Ma and Pa (if you ask them) will probably tell you what the Castles did for "the dance" in America. Dancing, as they may remember, was in a pretty bad way along about 1910. People were tossing, twisting and gyrating in motions labeled "the Grizzly Bear," the "Texas Tommy," and the "Bunny Hug."

Editors, preachers, clubwomen were viewing with alarm.

Then came the Castles. Ballroom dancers. They took the same dances, Irene Castle says, and "did them in a whisper." They took dances that were active, angular and unbecoming" and made them dances instead of athletic workouts They also did the Tango, the Hesitation, and the Maxine And the Castles became THE dance team.

In 1915 Vernon, a British subject, joined the Royal Flying Corps. A couple of years over the battle fronts, and he was transferred to teach flying to Americans and British in Texas. There a plane crash ended his life—and there, too, the film record will end Irene Castle is here to advise technically, to help in the writing, and to design the costumes Ginger will wear as Irene Castle.

"It's all there," she says, indicating a pile of scrapbooks and a single large trunk near her desk. "I've brought out Vernon's uniforms and some of my costumes. They're a little frayed and faded, but they'll give an idea of styles and colors—and of course we're using only those costumes adaptable gracefully in the light of modern styles."

Mrs. Castle, twice married since Vernon's death, but still using his name professionally, sits at that desk—a slim, completely charming, vitally young person in white skirt and blouse—and she's happy to be there. She doesn't want to act again. During the war she starred in the serial "Patria"—"but I hadn't any real talent for it. I like this better."

The movie won't be complete unless it shows up the Castles as complete softies where children and animals are concerned. Touring in vaudeville, they used to buy up all the trained animal acts that looked mistreated.

She's been a dog-lover from way back Her father, a judge, had 75 pedigreed dogs on their place when she was a girl, and Irene used to pick up strays — which caused no end of confusion.

Today she picks up strays on a large scale. Eleven years ago she founded a dog refuge in Deerfield, Ill., where each year thousands of lost pets are accepted either for reclamation, distribution to families wanting them, or humane disposal.

Modern Red Ridinghood

This ensemble is an innovation this year for campus wear. The blue and red plaid coat has a neat attached hood and both are lined with bright red, giving a suggestion of Little Red Ridinghood out for a morning stroll before a meeting with the Big Bad Wolf. This co-ed wears with it a dark grey wool skirt and a red crew-neck sweater of soft wool and close knit.

Mexican Decorations Used At Party For Bride-Elect

AN ATTRACTIVE and "different" party was given last night for Miss Martha Hering, whose marriage to John Tillotson, of Springfield, Mass., will take place the latter part of October, at the home of the hostess, Mrs. C. V. Oyler, 20 S. West avenue.

It was a Mexican party, with all decorations, pottery and dishes in Mexican colors and ware. The picnic supper was served on the porch at a table arranged in fiesta colors—red and yellow and orange. The centerpiece was a Mexican pottery bowl filled with various colored peppers. Throughout the house were pieces of pottery and flowers in the gay colors of the southern republic.

The evening was spent at bridge with prizes going to Miss Emily Burns and Miss Bernice Heuss.

The evening was completed when the hostess presented Miss Hering with a wedding gift.

TO GIVE LAWN FETE.

The Star of Hope class of South Main Street Evangelical church will give a lawn fete and ice cream festival on the lawn of the church Friday evening.

If your tried and trusty carpet sweeper develops annoying squeaks, try the simple device of applying a few drops of glycerine. In addition to acting as a lubricant, there's an added advantage too in using glycerine this way because it will not stain nor discolor your rug or carpet if it should "come off" on them.

To help prevent sunburn, put half a teaspoonful of glycerine into three-quarters of a cup of water, smooth it over the skin with a soft cloth, leave it on for a few minutes and then wipe off the excess. This simple procedure will make your sunburn precautions doubly sure.

FALL CALENDAR LISTS MANY BRIGHT SPOTS

Parade of Weddings to Continue Through Late Early Fall: Engagements Announced and Wedding Plans Being Laid.

WHILE study clubs and women's organizations are working out programs for the fall and winter season, the social calendar also presents some bright and attractive events, not the least interesting of which are several weddings, some of which are already definitely dated on the calendar and a number of others that have been announced and will undoubtedly take place in the late fall, although dates have not yet been set.

Among these are the weddings of Virginia Viegele whose engagement to William T. Green of Charleston, W. Va., was recently announced at a garden party, and Virginia Starkey, fiancee of Richard Tappan. The Starkey-Tappan engagement was announced recently but no date has been set for the wedding.

The engagement of another socially prominent couple was announced recently to a small group of friends but will not be made public until the wedding date and plans are arranged.

Martha Hering's marriage to John Tillotson of Springfield, Mass., will be an event of Oct. 22, and Betty McConnell's wedding will take place Sept. 24. She is marrying Gene Zediker.

Elizabeth Woltmann and Albert Strickler will exchange vows the latter part of this week. Several others are being planned but announcements have not been made.

There are still two dances in the series of summer affairs on the Westbrook Country club calendar, the Labor day dance which is being planned by Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Fernyak, and which will be given Saturday night; and the Finale dinner dance on Sept. 24 when Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Black will be chairmen.

The interval "between dances" for this group will be only a few weeks as the Our club winter program usually gets under way with the annual Thanksgiving dance.

MRS. LONGSDORF HOSTESS.

Mrs. Edward Longsdorf, Springmill street, was hostess last night to members of the Wooden Shoe club. Euchre was played at two tables and prizes were won by Mrs. George Kentosh, Mrs. Lee Bartlett and Mrs. Anthony Normant. On Sept. 14 Miss Callie Normant will entertain the club at her home on Daisy street.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. John Marlow and son, Charles, West Fourth street, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Stephan and son, Richard, 11 Granite street, have returned from a three weeks trip to Canada. They visited the Dionne hospital at Callendar and the Canadian National Exposition at Toronto.

Shower Honors Miss Robertson, September Bride

Miss Martha Robertson, 436 North Mulberry street, who will be a September bride, received a number of lovely gifts last night when she was given a miscellaneous shower.

Mrs. Herbert Trout, 103 Riley street, was hostess at her home, with Mrs. Carl Stover as associate hostess. There were 14 guests.

Mrs. Wade Baer was a prize winner when contests were played. A buffet luncheon was served from a table centered with a miniature bride and groom, garden flowers and candles. The honoree presided at the coffee urn.

She will marry Charles Baer Saturday at First Lutheran church.

PARTY ON BIRTHDAY.

Donovan Garber, 175 East First street, celebrated his 7th birthday yesterday by inviting ten small friends to his home for a party. After spending the afternoon at games and contests, refreshments were served at a table centered with a birthday cake with seven candles. Candy airplanes were favors. Guests were Phyllis Stahl, Peggy Carlisle, Eldon Roberts, Jane Feidler, Kenneth Knapp, Gene Carlisle, Barbara Groves, Bobbie Beech, Lela Shelby and Lloid Penrose.

COVERED DISH PICNIC.

Fifty members of three patriotic organizations and their families held an annual picnic last night at North Lake park. The organizations represented were the Women's Relief Corps, the Sons of Union Veterans and the Sarah E. Pfeifer auxiliary, all identified with McLaughlin Post, G. A. R. The long tables were decorated with garden flowers and the evening spent socially. Mrs. Anna Butts and Mrs. Charles Edmonstone were co-chairmen on arrangements. The Relief Corps will hold its first regular meeting of the new season on Sept. 14 at Memorial hall. The Sarah Pfeifer group meets again on Sept. 21 at North Lake park for a 6 o'clock dinner.

'Not Bashful, Just Quiet' Asks Advice

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My parents are the kind that think the first boy who goes with a girl is the one she must marry. I'm 17 years old and will be a senior in high school in the fall. I have been going with a boy for four months, not exactly on the sly, but almost. My mother knows I go out with him occasionally; but as much as I've gone with this boy, he has never tried to kiss me. I really admire him very much for this.

Although I am very fond of him, I never intend to marry him because he isn't the type of husband I want. The other evening when I went out with him, I told him we would have to stop seeing each other, because my mother objected. We're going away on a short trip, and I hope to stay away from my home town until school starts, so it will be easier for me to forget him. On the way home from the date with him, he asked me if he could kiss me before we parted, and I consented.

Later, when we got home, I asked him to kiss me good night and was immediately sorry. I think he must despise me for it, and I feel as though I shall never be able to face him. Please tell me what to do, as I do want to keep on being friends with this boy. Thanks very much.

MARIANNE

I don't believe that boy will find it very hard to forgive you for asking for a goodnight kiss, my dear. And I shouldn't be too rigid about not seeing him occasionally. Granted he isn't the type you wish to marry, he may be the type of which good friends are made.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I take a girl out I am so quiet, I don't seem to be able to think of anything to say. I'm not really bashful; it's just that I don't know what interests girls. I was an only child and had to work my way through school, and now that I'm earning a pretty good salary, I like to take out girls occasionally, but would like to be able to make myself interesting.

A. L. T.

Different girls are interested in different things. And—if I may be forgiven for disclosing a secret of my own sex—all girls are interested in subjects which concern them personally.

Some girls like to talk about their work and the places where they are employed. Other girls are interested in outdoor sports, and can talk like sports writers on baseball and other athletics. Other girls—and I'm afraid a great many—like to talk about themselves, their moods, what jolly times they've had, their sorrows. All young creatures think they get raw deals at times. Still other girls like to discuss the movies, novels they've read, etc. Draw them out and find a favorite topic, then encourage them to tell you all about it.

My Neighbor Says:

Thymus, serpyllum, which is often spoken of as the lemon thyme because of its distinct lemon odor, is a particularly valuable, low-growing plant. It is just as useful for a moist, cool rockery as for planting among stepping stones. It can also be used advantageously as an edging for the front of hardy borders. It will grow in any situation, either in full sunshine or in partial shade, provided the soil is not too dry. In a light soil, if artificial moisture cannot be given, it makes sparse growth.

The lovely Japanese iris is being more widely planted as garden makers realize that it does not necessarily have to be grown on the edge of a pond or stream, but will thrive in any garden if the soil is reasonably good and is kept constantly stirred. Water is perhaps more necessary for these plants than for most perennials, but it is never necessary to keep them drenched. If one happens to have a pool or a pond, that is, of course, the ideal location for them. Old plants are readily divided, but the crowns should be planted several inches deep instead of near the surface, as is the case with the bearded irises.

Pancakes spread with brown sugar and cinnamon and rolled are delicious when served at breakfast.

Warm Foods Have Value In Summer

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Because this country, in most sections, enjoys 10 months of temperate weather as against two of intense heat, we have not learned how to eat wisely on those infrequent days when the mercury climbs to dizzy heights. In lands, such as India, for example, where such weather is a daily occurrence, the food motto is the hotter the day the hotter the meal.

Not only is the food hot from the fire, but hot from the standpoint of seasoning, for a natural instinct has taught tropical people two things which science has since confirmed. The first thing is that a listless appetite must be stirred into action during hot weather through rich, fragrant aromas. The second thing is that increased perspiration, brought on by hot food, has a cooling reaction. That's why a cup of hot tea is such a refresher. And that's why curries, steaming, flavorsome stews and well-spiced sauces are found to be daily staples of East Indian and other tropical cuisines.

No Long Hours.

When made in the modern American kitchen, these foods do not mean long hours spent hovering over a hot stove. The pungent curry sauce may be made in half an hour in the cool of the morning to be reheated at dinner time, then poured over shrimp or chicken, or pieces of boiled lamb or veal. A spicy stew may be cooked by the absent-treatment method. Let the meat simmer in a well-seasoned combination of water and canned tomatoes, while you go out-of-doors to trap an errant breeze. Vegetables are added one hour before serving time and left to boil gently. Corned beef, boiled ham and boiled beef dinners are other suggestions for meals that can be temptingly garnished with tasty condiments but which require little supervision on the part of the cook.

While foods that are well flavored should be served the year round, it is in the summer time when their stimulating qualities are most appreciated. The nose has a way of signaling the stomach that something delicious is on the way, and an appetite that seemed non-existent will suddenly make itself evident.

Curried Crabmeat.

Curried crabmeat is a dish that generally becomes a big favorite after it is introduced, especially when made according to the recipe given here. It requires two cups hot cooked rice, three tablespoons butter, one and one-half teaspoons minced onion, three tablespoons flour, one tablespoon curry powder, one and one-half cups chicken stock, one and one-half cups canned crabmeat, one tablespoon lemon juice and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Cook minced onion with butter for three minutes. Then add the flour, salt and curry powder and stir until smooth. Next add chicken stock (liquid made from chicken bouillon cubes or canned chicken broth will do). Cook until thickened. Add canned crabmeat, from which bones have been removed, and lemon juice. Heat and serve with hot rice.

When making butter balls chill the paddles 30 minutes in iced water in the refrigerator and the butter will be much easier to handle. Always work quickly, however.

Use scissors for cutting meat, fish and fowl used in salads. The pieces are more even.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"HOW DID you ever manage it?" I breathed, as Lillian told of preparing for the job of fooling Philip Veritzen, who, my father had stipulated, was not to know of the removal of his royal protegees from the New Hampshire hospital until after they had gone, nor their destination.

"He knows both you and Harry so well," I went on, "and he keeps a regular cat-at-the-mouse-hole watch over that hospital."

"Are you telling me?" she gibed. "And we never would have done it in the world if my revered husband hadn't been a past master at theatrical make-up."

"Oh!" I said, with sudden and complete comprehension, for I, indeed, did know the uncanny skill of Lillian's husband in disguising himself or anyone else so that only the most expert eye could detect the forgery.

"But," I said, remembering the man they had planned to deceive, "isn't Philip Veritzen—"

Can't Fool Him.

"One of the few men in the world who is unfoolable in matters of that kind?" she said. "Yes, we knew all that, but we had to take the chance. We planned to take another car, and have it driven by one of the guards your father had provided—they were awaiting us in the next town, he had said. We would be passengers in the back seat, and we were sure we would pass a casual glance of Philip Veritzen should he encounter the car. It was only his scrutiny of us should we come face to face that we feared.

"You never saw such a nice old couple as Harry made out of us," she went on, smiling reminiscently. "Darby and Joan, right from a comfortable farmhouse, with our sons driving us around to see the sights. We bought the necessary clothes in Northampton, and Harry made us up while the men parked us on a secluded country road where, if a car went by once an hour it made a record. They stood guard so we could settle back into the seat if anyone did pass, but we were absolutely undisturbed, and when we finally started north again, nobody save a shark like Philip Vertizen could have penetrated our disguise.

"At the first big town we stopped while one of the men went to one of those drive 'em yourself places, and paying the necessary guarantee—your father sent plenty of money by the guards—took out a car of a different make than ours. Then he picked us up, and the other man drove our own car to a garage, and then rejoined us.

"Then we were ready for the great adventure. Both guards were splendid drivers, and we sure burned up the roads to the town where the hospital is. There Harry and I stopped at a little hotel and took a room, while the men started doing some tall and heavy sleuthing. When they returned they had found out that Lady Luck was smiling at us. Philip Veritzen and Noel were gone on a business trip, were not expectetd back until dinner time, and Olina was with her mother at the hospital.

Wrote Note to Olga.

"I wrote a little note to Olga, signing it with my name and asking her to meet a friend of mine who had a very urgent message for her from me which could only be delivered by word of mouth. Then Harry and I beat it to the hospital, where he sat in the car parked as near to the entrance as we could get, and I waited in the ante room until the summons came for me to go up to Olga's suite.

"She's used to intrigue, that lady," Lillian said appreciatively. "She dismissed her nurse as soon as I had entered the room, and was about to send Olina away also, when I asked to have her stay. Then she looked at me searchingly, her eyes traveling over every inch of me, and when they came back to meet mine, I said to myself that she was a worthy comrade to Philip Veritzen in her abilty to detect make-up.

"I see there's no use fooling you," I said in my natural voice, and Olina jumped.

"'Why, why?' she stammered, and her mother smiled at her and at me.

"'Permit me, Mrs. Underwood, to present my daughter,' she said.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Sept. 2.

PROPITIOUS AND very progressive conditions may be read from this day's planetary configurations, the most powerful of which is a sign of a definite breaking up of old frustrating or crystallized affairs. The relaxing of impediments should make way for an expensive and lucrative turn in the fortunes.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a very propitious and productive year with affairs flourishing after a prolonged seige of stagnation. This upturn may be due to a profitable investment, a decided uptrend in property values, or it may be the bequest or gift of an elder.

A child born on this day may be steady, studious and capable, attracting the support and goodwill of elders who are powerful in shaping and advancing its future career. It should have a bright, tactful, courteous and happy disposition, enhancing its personal popularity and prestige.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU HAVE TO HURRY

ADOPTING a slow-acting kind of tactics is bad defense if the dummy contains a set-up suit. There is grave danger then that the declarer will discard his losers in other suits before you can cash your winners. So, if you have any quick ones, bring them in right away. If you haven't, try to set one up quickly if you possess a sure entry in the trump suit.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable).

The bidding on this deal began by South calling 1-Spade. West overcalled with 2-Diamonds, North 3-Clubs, East 3-Diamonds, South 4-Clubs and North 5-Clubs.

The deal came up in a duplicate and where the defense faltered the game was made.

At one table with the diamond 2 led by East, West took with the J, and realizing from the deuce lead that North held no more, he discontinued that suit. The trump A was bound to be won, but another trick was necessary to defeat North. The set-up spades in dummy looked dangerous, in view of North's refusal of that suit. West's aim was to pave the way for that other trick before his high trump was drawn. On this reasoning, he switched to a heart with a prayer that East could force the A. East's Q did just that, so that when trumps were tried the A won and the heart K followed, killing the declarer's chances of game.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable).

How should South play for 3-No Trumps after the lead of the spade K?

Bread should be cooled thoroughly before being stored. If hot weather each loaf should be inspected daily for mold

If you serve brick ice cream on a glass or china plate, you will find it does not melt so quickly if a wafer or cookie is put on the plate first. The cookie acts as insulation.

Rookie Buoys Hopes

Red Barrett Wins for Reds in Debut, Stops Dodgers, 8-3; Point for Bucs.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The victorious pitching debut of Charles (Red) Barrett, 23-year-old rookie from Syracuse, plus a sustained revival of heavy hitting by Ernie Lombardi, Frank McCormick, and company, today buoyed pennant dreams of the Cincinnati Reds.

Barrett, who had won 16 and only lost three games for Syracuse this season, stepped into major league competition Wednesday night and held the Brooklyn Dodgers to eight hits, struck out two and walked two as his new mates pounded out a late-inning victory, 8 to 3.

Welcome Addition.

The rookie's winning debut came at a time when Redland followers were praying for pitching strength to go with rediscovered slugging prowess in the long-shot fight to overtake the front-running Pittsburgh Pirates who lead the Reds by 6½ games.

The jubilant fans now eye both with expectancy and confidence the nine games remaining between the Reds and Pirates. They take hope in the fact that six of the games will be played at the Reds' home park. The schedule calls for the Pirates to appear at Crosley Field Sept. 7, 8, 9, 30 and Oct. 1 and 2. The Reds invade Forbes Field at Pittsburgh, Sept. 23, 24 and 25.

With Johnny Vander Meer about recovered from an ear ailment and with a chance that Lee Grissom, 1937 star who had been out most of this year, may be ready to pitch again this season, the Reds' pitching stock soared after Barrett's showing.

There has been nothing wrong with the hitting for the last three consecutive wins. With the score tied at 2-all in the sixth inning against Brooklyn, McCormick and Lombardi connected with successive pitches by the Dodgers' Luke Hamlin and boomed out home runs. It was Lombardi's 14th and McCormick's fifth four-bagger of the year. Craft followed with a double and scored on Lonnie Frey's single, before the inning was over.

Frey rapped four singles in the 15-hit attack by Bill McKechnie's hirelings. Lombardi had a double to go with his single and McCormick added a single. Lew Riggs again celebrated his return from the bench by collecting three singles and playing sparkling ball at third base.

The Reds were idle today before meeting the Chicago Cubs at Crosley Field.

Recalls 11 Players.

General Manager Warren C. Giles announced recall of 11 players optioned to minor league clubs and the end of a working agreement with Syracuse. The players will report next spring.

They were Outfielder Tony Bongiovanni, and Catcher Dee Moore, Syracuse; Infielder Justin Stein, Rochester; First Baseman Les Scarsella, Newark; Third Baseman Eddie Joost, Kansas City; Outfielder Carl Jorgenson, Indianapolis; Third Baseman Charley English, Los Angeles; Shortstop Lindsey Brown, Nashville; Catcher Richard West, Chattanooga; Pitcher Paul Gehrman, Albany, and Pitcher Junior Thompson, Columbia, S. While 80,000 watched, the All-Star Collegians overwhelmed the Washington Redskins, world's champion professional grid team, by a score of 28-16 last night. Max Krause, giant Washington fullback (No. 25) is shown scoring the first touchdown which gave the Redskins a first half lead of 10-3. The Collegians came back strong in the second half, however, scoring four touchdowns and taking the game.

Possum Run Wins Wooster Invitational Meet

POSSUM RUN golfers dominated a field of 10 six-man teams to win the invitational tournament held at the tricky Wooster Country club yesterday.

In addition to winning team honors with a 306 total, Possum Run produced the medal winner in Al Kushin, who shot a sub-par 71.

Pete Linster, Kushin's opponent in the Possum Run finals to be staged next Sunday, came through with a three-above-par 75 to register the second lowest score of the day.

Paul Jesson contributed a 79 to the Possum Run total, while Bob Dillon hung up an 81. Win Pilot and Frank Cipris, other members of the Mansfield team, shot 82's in the tournament in which the four low scores were totaled.

The Possum Run foursome edged its nearest rival, Wadsworth, by 12 strokes. Shelby finished third with a 319 total.

The Mansfield team was presented with a trophy at a banquet following the tournament.

Passes Topple Champs

Winners' Alertness Converts Washington's Mistakes Into Touchdowns.

By STEVE SNIDER

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Slingin' Sammy Baugh will have a dangerous passing rival in the National football league this fall—Cecil Isbell of the Green Bay Packers, a product of the same All-Star series that thrust into the national spotlight just one year ago.

Isbell, who expects to graduate from the All-Stars to the Packers, outpitched Baugh last night as the collegiate squad humbled Washington's world champion Redskins, 28 to 16.

Proves Throwing Skill.

In his three years at Purdue, Isbell was rated the best passer in the Big Ten. He proved it again before 74,250 in Soldier Field, passing 40 yards to one touchdown, leading a second scoring drive and again conducting a 67-yard march that ended just a foot short of a touchdown.

But it wasn't all Isbell. Baugh had his streaks of greatness, twice leading scoring marches of 75 and 67 yards, despite an ankle injury and the stiffest forward pass defense he had ever faced.

The difference in scoring was the result of alertness by the rest of the All-Stars who converted every Redskin mistake into a touchdown. They blocked a punt for one, twice intercepted passes for scores and almost added another.

Trailing 10 to 3 on Max Krause's touchdown at the end of Baugh's 75-yard drive and a 22-yard place kick by Riley Smith, the All-Stars opened up in the third period. Jim McDonald's field goal from the seven-yard line early in the first period had been their only scoring until Isbell, with a 10-yard run and 40-yard pass to John Kovatch of Northwestern, scored their first touchdown.

Within a minute, Phil Dougherty of Santa Clara intercepted a pass by George Karmatic and ran 44 yards for another. Jim Benton of Arkansas then blocked Baugh's quick kick, recovering on Washington's 15, and Isbell was off again. He passed 13 yards to Frank Patrick of Pittsburgh and Corby Davis went the rest of the way.

Baugh moved the Redskins within five points at 21 to 16 by heaving three passes good for 60 yards to the All-Star seven-yard line. A time penalty made it first and two, and Karmatic carried it over.

Intercepts for Score.

One last desperate pass was intercepted for a 47-yard touchdown run by Minnesota's Andy Uram. Patrick kicked the extra point.

Isbell handled his assignment so well at left halfback that Bo McMillin of Indiana and his staff of four All-Star coaches used the touted Colorado Whizzer, Byron White, only one period.

Pitcher Hammers Out Three Homers

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—It won't be long before they light up the kindling for the first fire in the old hot stove for the American association and when they do George Winegarner will figure in some of the recollections of 1938's season.

Winegarner—you'll find him listed as a pitcher with the Milwaukee Brewers — gained his corner in the '38 association hall of celebrities last night.

Dubbed the Brews general handyman, the Kansan, who will be 29 in October, proved himself very handy with a bat. As the Brews trampled the leading St. Paul Saints, 13 to 2, he hammered out three home runs and a double in five trips to the plate. He scored four runs. He drove in six runs. And—hold on—he played third base.

Australia's Davis Cup players are not allowed to talk to newspapermen as a result of what happened a few days ago when its cricket team played England. So violent were the Australians' accusations that England's bowler was throwing a "bean" ball that there was talk of secession. . . . When Os' Vitt was piloting Newark 25 games in front of the International league pack last year, Col. Jacob Ruppert, his boss, criticised him severely for not leading by 35. Jake likes a winner.

Mickey Cochrane

One hundred football players will report to Elmer Layden at Notre Dame Sept. 10. Another 100 or so will show up five days later. Poor Elmer! . . . It took 38 mail sacks to send out ticket applications for Ohio State football games, weighing 2,225 pounds. . . . A team in the Texas league has signed a pitcher by the name of Ty Cobb.

Henry Armstrong's fat manager, Eddie Mead, who served as one of Joe Louis' seconds in the Max Schmeling fight, says that the German quit in his dressing room. Mead was Louis' representative in Schmeling's dressing room to look over the bandages, and claims that the German broke out in a cold sweat when the champ's name was mentioned. There is another story that when Louis landed his first punches and Schmeling was on the ropes, he yelled "Genug!" Translated, "Genug" means enough. But Louis didn't know what he meant. Probably thought he was calling him names.

Indians Do Their Fighting in Clubhouse—Parker.

DEFENDING his action, Walter Briggs says Mickey Cochrane was canned by the Tigers because he lost control of the players. But others say the reason he lost out was because he couldn't get along with Mr. Brigg's boy . . . and Dan Parker, another New York scribe, says the reason the Indians are not doing much fighting on the ball field is because they're doing too much of it in the clubhouse.

Time to Think About Keltner, 1939 Campaign

PHILADELJHIA—(U.P.)—Followers of the disappointing Cleveland Indians today tried to forget the disastrous collapse of their favorites this season and to concentrate on the recent long-distance hitting of the Tribe's younger members as a harbinger of 1939.

The slugging of freshman third baseman Ken Keltner, who belted out two home runs Wednesday as the Indians whipped Philadelphia, 8 to 6, was the latest cheering note. They were Keltner's 23rd and 24th homers of his first full season in the major league and left him only two behind such sluggers as the Yankees Joe DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig.

Meanwhile, Jeff Heath, Bruce Campbell and Roy Weatherly continued to pound the ball. Each collected two hits Wednesday including a double for Weatherly and a triple for Heath.

The Vittmen needed all the batting support available as the veteran Willis Hudlin, Indian pitcher, had no easy time with the last place Athletics. They reached him for 12 hits and five bases on balls, leading the Tribe 6 to 5, at the end of the sixth inning. Another collapse of the Cleveland infield, almost a daily occurrence, aided the Mackmen in scoring two runs in the sixth.

Keltner's second homer tied the score in the eighth. The winning ninth inning tallies came on Weatherly's double, a passed ball, Campbell's single and Trosky's single.

The Indians end their eastern trip with a single game against the A's today. Bob Feller may pitch for the Indians.

HOUSTON TO BRING SOFTBALL TEAM HERE

Kenny Houston, a former Mansfield softball pitching star, will bring his Chillicothe team to Prospect park Sunday, Sept. 11, to meet the Willis Billiards, Frank Balbaugh, manager of the Cuemen, announced today. The lineup of the Chillicothe team includes "Doc" Stiff, once one of the outstanding softball twirlers in Columbus

TWO WORLD'S RECORDS SET IN GRAND CIRCUIT

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(INS)—Two world records were shattered and another equalled as Grand Circuit racing continued today at the New York State fair.

Her Lady tied her own record for pacing mares, covering the first heat in 1:58¼. She came back with miles in 1:58½ and 1:59¼ for a world three-heat record for pacers. Rosalind was the other record-breaker, with a new mark of 1:57¾ for trotting mares.

Chevies Play Three On Sunday, Monday

The Mohican Chevrolets play three games over the coming holiday week-end, and they will be seeking revenge in two of them.

On Sunday the Automen go to Lodi for a single game, and return to West Salem where they dropped a double-header last Sunday on Monday

GLENN WINS IN 4:26

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Glenn Cunningham, America's premier miler, nosed out Gene Venzke of the N. Y. A. C. last night in a mile race which preceded the night baseball game between the Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers. Cunningham ran the mile in 4:26 around an eight-lap track.

ALL-STARS, TOO

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(INS)—Football spotlight centers on Brown stadium tonight as the professional Chicago Bears and the Collegiate All-Stars collide to knock the lid off the New England gridiron season.

Cartnal Reins Derby Winner

Lima Pacer Captures Richest Event on Program.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Rainey G. Henley, owned by Peter Schindledecker, Lima, and driven by Gabe Cartnal, Hanover, today had captured the first Ohio Pacing derby, richest event of the Ohio State fair harness program.

The gelded son of Peter Henley came home the winner in the first and third heats and finished fourth in the second heat before a crowd of 11,000. The derby carried a purse of $2,000.

Edwards won the Director of Agriculture stakes in two straight heats. He is owned by Ed Rauh, Dayton, and driven by Eddie Sellers, Dayton. Other victors on Wednesday's program were Kate Kennion, in the 2:15 trot, and Monday in the classified pace.

Today's program features the Governor's stake for Ohio-owned two-year-old trotters. The purse is $1,500.

BRASSMEN SCORE FOUR IN FIRST TO WIN, 4-3

Scoring all of their runs in the first inning, the Mansfield Brassmen coasted to a 4 to 3 victory over the Tinkey Lumbers at League park yesterday. Walker, Burrage and T. L. Lindsay of the Brass club pounded out a pair of hits apiece. Biddle paced the losers with three hits.

Bo's Five-Man Backfield Out

Big Ten Officials Rule Against Extra 'Back.'

CHICAGO—(AP)—Bo McMillin's "five-man backfield" which had Indiana's football opponents guessing last season has been thrown for a loss by the Western conference rulers.

The unusual secondary fashioned by Coach McMillin employed four backs and a lineman. After the backfield shifted either the lineman or one of the backs would hop into the line.

Coaches and officials of the Big Ten, meeting in a rules interpretation session with Major John L. Griffith, conference commissioner, decided yesterday that a lineman moved to the backfield would have to play there for the balance of the game.

The wing back rule was clarified to provide that every part of the wingback's body must be at least a yard behind the line of scrimmage.

Bucs Protest Giants' Win

Claim Umpire Erred as Suhr Is Called Out.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The Pirate front office forwarded a written protest today to National league President Ford Frick against a decision by Umpire Ziggy Sears in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader with the Giants.

Manager Pie Traynor said he had "no intention" of backing down of his announcement that the game, which went to the New Yorkers, 6-5, was finished under protest.

The disputed play came in the sixth inning, provoking a 15-minute argument in which a throng of 43,586—the largest regular season gate in Forbes field—joined in howls of derision aimed Sears.

With runners on second and third, Pirate Pitcher Russ Bauers hit to Giant Shortstop George Myatt, who threw the ball to Catcher Harry Danning. Gus Suhr, boxed between third and home, raced back to third but Pep Young was on the bag. Danning touched both men. Young was obviously out, under the rules, since Suhr had prior possession of the bag. But after a pause Suhr walked off the bag and Danning touched him again, Sears ruling both runners out. Suhr claimed Sears called him out while he was on the bag and that is the reason he left it.

DAVIS CUP PLAYERS IN BRISK WORKOUTS

GERMANTOWN, Pa.—(INS)—The United States Davis Cup team, headed by the California wizard, Don Budge, went through a brisk workout today at the Germantown Cricket club before tapering off for the all-important series over the week-end. The Americans will defend the cup in a series of five matches with Australia.

MARKET CALM AS SPECULATING INTEREST LAGS

Wall Street Prolongs Wait for Foreign Developments, End of Vacations.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks were bereaved today by lack of trading interest in the market as Wall Street prolonged its wait for events in central Europe and for the passing of the vacation season in financial quarters.

In bonds and commodities, speculation also marked time, keeping prices in a limited range.

Wall Street found hints of further easing of war fears in the calmness of foreign markets and a steadier course of foreign exchanges against the dollar.

Rail shares sagged in face of the failure in mediation efforts to settle the wage cut question and a move for a strike vote among the unions.

Attention again was directed toward the constantly widening base for credit and currency by the federal reserve bank of New York, which reported the United States' gold holdings last month increased about $100,000,000 from accelerated imports and release of metal previously held under earmark. It was the biggest monthly gain in the gold stock since last September.

BALANCE THE Budget

You will find that your pay check goes much farther after you arrange a cash loan and pay up everything you owe.

For example, a loan of $500 can be used to clean up $300 worth of bills and debts, buy $100 worth of clothes and personal items, with $100 left over to start you right, so that you won't find yourself getting behind this winter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

to the

Poultry Worm Problem and Treatment

Q.: Is the poultry worm problem a serious one?
A.: Yes, because all flocks are subject to worm infestation, which can cause serious damage to health, growth and egg production loss.
Q.: What are the most common types of worms that infest poultry?
A.: Round worms and tapeworms.
Q.: How long does it take the worms to grow?
A.: It takes from 28 to 30 days for worms to go through their normal life cycle.
Q.: Why is that important?
A.: It is important because it means that worms must be removed from chickens more than once during the year. After worms have been removed chickens can become reinfested, and another treatment is necessary.
Q.: How can I tell if my chickens are wormy?
A.: When chickens do not grow as fast or lay as well as they should, when they are backward, crow-headed and easily susceptible to colds, one should always think of worms.
Q.: At what age should chickens be wormed?
A.: The age is less important than the season of the year. There is more trouble with worms in the summer and fall than in the winter and spring. Pullets ten to sixteen weeks of age should be given a pullet size RoTa Cap. Over that age should be given the adult size.
Q.: Is it advisable to worm an apparently healthy looking flock?
A.: Yes, because the low cost of worming the flock is good insurance against later loss in health and egg production.
Q.: What worms infest turkeys?
A.: Tapeworms are most common but round worms and cecal (pin) worms are also causes of trouble.
Q.: How are tapeworms removed from turkeys?
A.: Dr. Salsbury's RoTa Caps remove heads and segments of the common turkey tapeworm.
Q.: Is there an individual treatment that will get both round worms and tapeworms?
A.: Yes, Dr. Salsbury's RoTa Cap will get both round worms and tapeworms.
Q.: How are RoTa Caps given?
A.: RoTa Caps are given when the crop is empty. For turkeys 16 to 20 weeks a pullet size Cap; for turkeys over 20 weeks, an adult Cap; for full grown and large turkeys, 2 adult Caps.
Q.: Are these age limits absolute?
A.: No. Individual flocks will permit a good deal of variation. Judgment must always be used.
Q.: Will RoTa Caps cause fowls to become sick?
A.: No. Dr. Salsbury's RoTa Cop is a mild but very effective worm treatment.
Q.: Why are RoTa Caps a mild treatment?
A.: RoTa Caps are a non-toxic treatment because they produce no loss in flesh, very little loss in egg production and no toxic effects following their administration. This is because they contain a laxative which does not irritate or burn the intestinal lining, and Rotamine which is comparatively non-toxic to chickens.
Q.: What do RoTa Cops contain that gets tapeworms?
A.: RoTa Caps contain Rotamine, a new chemical made at Dr. Salsbury's Laboratories which paralyzes tapeworms without exerting any irritating effects upon the lining of the intestines.
Q.: Why are RoTa Caps superior worm caps?
A.: RoTa Caps contain Nicotine Sulfate which satisfactorily removes round worms—Ascaridia and Capillaria—the two most important round worms to remove—and also Rotamine which removes tapeworms—Raillietina tetragona, Raillietina echinobothrida and Metroliasthes lucida. Both of these drugs are present in the same capsule, and neither of them is an irritating drug which produces an inflammation of the intestines.
Q.: What is Rotamine, which is in RoTa Caps?
A.: Rotamine is a new chemical, prepared by Dr. Salsbury's Laboratories. It is a specific for the removal of tapeworms.
Q.: When should chickens or turkeys be fed after worming?
A.: In about half an hour.
Q.: Is it necessary to give the fowls a laxative following the RoTa Cap treatment?
A.: It is not necessary to give the fowls a laxative following the RoTa Cap treatment as RoTa Caps contain Areca Nut, which produces it laxative effect by the stimulation of the nerve of the intestine. This produces a prompt laxative effect which is gone within a few hours after the administration of the RoTa Caps. Therefore, the laxative effect does not last for three or four days after the administration.

O'Connor Says New Deal Has Forces Out to Beat Him.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Rep. John O'Connor, the Tammany veteran whose defeat has been asked by President Roosevelt, charged last night that the administration had sent federal office-holders from Washington to aid James H. Fay, his New Deal opponent.

O'Connor in a radio address also accused Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of ordering "all city employes to render all aid possible" to his rival.

O'Connor, chairman of the house rules committee, said Fay's nominating petitions, whose legality will be tested in court today, were circulated "by a score of deputy collectors of internal revenue" and by city employes acting under orders from Mayor LaGuardia.

SHELBY COUNCIL TAKES ACTION ON PWA GRANT

Votes Acceptance of $135,000 Fund for Improvements to Power, Water Plants.

SHELBY—City council passed a resolution last night accepting federal grants of $135,000 for two WPA projects for additions to the municipal electric and water plants at a special session called by Mayor D. B. Young

Work on the two projects will be started within eight weeks, J. P Adkins, general superintendent of the plants, disclosed. Both projects are set up as ten-month work programs.

Improvements to the water company will include a water softener unit and a 250,000-gallon water storage tank on Mohican street to raise the water pressure in the downtown fire district. A generator turbine and necessary improvements to increase the production of electricity will be constructed under the electric company project

Federal grants of 45 per cent of the project will be given for both projects The city's share of the water company project of $55,000 has been raised by a bond issue approved at the primaries by Shelby voters The $110,000 needed for the electric company will be taken from the plant's revenue.

COMMITTEES NAMED

SHELBY — Committees for the fall and winter parties were appointed Wednesday night for the United Youth association when its council held its regular meeting at the home of Miss Effie Durst.

Committees appointed by Tom Kirkpatrick, president, were: October, Misses Garnet and Helen Irey; November, Misses Dorothy Briggs and Hildred Brooks; December, Misses Hazel Mitchell and Effie Durst; and January, Dawson Swisher

The meeting was adjourned until Tuesday night when plans for participation in the Shelby Community Street Fair will be made at the home of Miss Briggs.

APPROVAL NEAR

Shelby Gas Rate Tangle Seen Settled Next Week.

SHELBY — Shelby's gas rate tangle is expected to be settled Tuesday night by city council when the third reading and final passage of a gas rate ordinance submitted by Councilman Chester Bell at the last session will be brought up, city officials disclosed today.

Although turned down by the council last spring, the ordinance passed its first and second readings at the last meeting on a vote of 4-1, with Councilman Charles Swanger, who has fought consistently for lower rates, casting the lone dissenting vote

The same proposal was rejected at the opening of negotiations in the spring by a 3-2 vote At that time Councilman Swanger, Kenneth Rothlisberger and C. E. Morris opposed the contract with the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports that on May 1 milk production in this country was at the highest peak for this season in 14 years

COUPLE WED IN SHELBY CHURCH

Rev. D. B. Young Officiates at Wedding of Miss Cramer and Paulding Man.

SHELBY—In a church decorated with garden flowers and lighted by soft candle light, Miss Margaret Cramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Skiles Cramer of 20 Mansfield avenue, was united in marriage to Robert Henderson of Paulding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson, sr, of Willard, yesterday at First Lutheran church.

Rev. D. B Young, pastor of the church, performed the single ring ceremony before immediate members of the families and friends. Mrs. Kathleen Day of Cleveland, sister of the groom, accompanied by Miss Vera Hatch of Shelby at the organ, sang several solos preceding the ceremony

Attendants were Mrs Ruth Sipe of Shelby, matron of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Florence Cramer of Shelby, bridesmaid, and Melvin Kennedy of Hillsboro, the best man The bride was given away by her father.

The bride wore a gown of white lace over white bridal satin in redingote style, with a shoulder length veil. She wore white accessories and carried a bouquet of white roses.

The bride's mother wore a rose lace gown and a corsage of roses The groom's mother was dressed in blue and white.

Miss Cramer graduated from Shelby high school and Oberlin Business college She had been employed by the Shelby Salesbook company. Mr Henderson attended Willard high and Purdue university, and is employed by the Eichling Hybrid Corn company in Paulding.

Following the wedding ceremony, thirty guests were present for the reception and dinner given for the bridal party at the Weaver Inn by the bride's parents. Upon return from a wedding trip through the south, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, jr will make their home in Paulding the past, also have influenced the political fates of the judge and prosecutor of the trial.

Seeks to Break Down Testimony of Davis on Payments to Hines by Gangsters.

Leaning toward the witness, Justice Ferdinand Pecora heard him say that $12,000 to $15,000 was contributed from racket funds to the campaign of William Copeland Dodge, who defeated Pecora and another candidate for district attorney in 1933.

Not only that, Davis added, but 100-odd gangster "floaters" were recruited by the Schultz mob, and they voted hundreds of times for Dodge in Hines' 11th assembly district.

Leading Davis through his electrifying recital, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey prompted him to tell how Hines in 1935 attempted, said Davis, to forestall the appointment of Dewey as special rackets prosecutor.

Seeks to Link Dixie To Gangster's Murder.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—District Attorney Charles J. Ranney, of Rennselaer county, said today that he was searching for evidence that would warrant trying J. Richard (Dixie) Davis on murder charges in connection with the slaying of racketeer Jules Martin.

Ranney revealed that he was unable to proceed against Davis on the basis of a statement made two weeks ago in which Davis admitted he was present when Martin was slain during an argument in a Cohoes, N. Y., hotel on March 3, 1935. In that statement Davis named Dutch Schultz as the killer of Martin.

Privileged Confession.

The prosecutor said Davis made the statement only after he had exacted an agreement that it would be considered as a privileged confession—in other words that it could not be used as the basis for criminal charges.

Ranney said that he had made no pledge not to prosecute if evidence from other sources could be found and that he had decided to attend the James J. Hines trial in the hope some reference to the Martin case would be made. Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora pinched off a possible statement on the murder while Davis was under direct examination yesterday.

"I am here to solve a murder," Ranney said as he entered the courtroom. "That is the only aspect of the case in which I am interested."

He explained that Davis could be tried on murder charges if it could be shown he helped Schultz dispose of the body, or lured Martin to Troy for conference with the gang leader, knowing that Schultz intended to kill.

The prosecutor said he was particularly interested in what Davis was doing between the time of the murder and the time Martin's body was dumped into a snow bank outside of Troy.

13 HELD IN JAIL IN TIRE THEFTS

Police Say Ring Took 'Orders' From 'Customers,' Then Broke Into Box Cars.

North Main street, four tires valued at $35.

Tires valued at from $7 to $10 brought an average price of $4 and in most cases the "orders" were received in advance of the actual theft, police said.

Box cars were raided from 15 to 20 times during the last three months.

The "break" in the series of thefts came last Tuesday night when policemen were assigned to a close watch of the Erie railroad freight yards.

Two 16-year-old boys were arrested after they had broken the seals of two cars loaded with tires.

Questioning developed confessions which implicated the other six accused of the break-ins, Chief Bates said.

Since early Wednesday morning, detectives and patrolmen have been at work rounding up persons to whom the tires were sold.

Tires were taken from automobiles, trucks and some were recovered at the homes of the alleged purchasers.

The tires in all instances were from shipments of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. Chief Bates said that in some cases, tires were stolen from the loading platforms at the company.

Asks U. S. Assurance of Food In Case of War.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Great Britain has asked assurances of the United States that, in the event of war with Germany, America's vast resources will remain open to her for vital replenishment of food supplies, munitions, guns and planes, it was reliably reported today.

One of Britain's major worries in the present tense crisis over Germany's threatened invasion of Czechoslovakia, it was learned, is that, should England be drawn in, the United States would instantly clamp down an embargo on war supplies under the neutrality act.

This crucial question is said to be one of the major considerations in the behind-the-scenes negotiations that is blocking completion of the Anglo-American trade pact.

While the final decision on invocation of the neutrality act rests solely within the discretion of President Roosevelt, it was pointed out, in effect, the neutrality act has become a dead letter. Observers pointed to the situation in regard to the Sino-Japanese conflict, now well into its second year.

Informed persons predicted today that should Germany march into Czechoslovakia in an undeclared war, and England and France are drawn in, President Roosevelt, because of the United States' close sympathy with the democracies, will refrain from invoking the neutrality act as he has in the instance of the far eastern "undeclared" war.

Thus, the United States, while maintaining an attitude of strict neutrality, would not be forced to penalize Great Britain or France by shutting off war supplies.

Reports Say Hitler Will Call Reichstag.

BERLIN —(U.P.)— Adolf Hitler plans to summon the Reichstag to meet next week during the annual congress of the Nazi party, it was reported today in reliable quarters.

Before the congress meets Monday, Hitler is expected to confer with Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador, and receive direct from him an outline of British policy in the Czechoslovak minority dispute.

Hitler arrived yesterday, after a tour of the Rhineland fortifications zone, at his mountain retreat outside of Berchtesgaden, in Bavaria.

It was reported that Sir Neville Henderson might be invited to Berchtesgaden to talk to Hitler.

Hitler customarily makes his speeches on great events before the Reichstag where possible. He has not spoken publicly on the Czechoslovak situation since May 21. Informants who said that he intended to summon his Reichstag next week added that he intended to make an important political statement before it, and it was assumed that the statement would be a definition of German foreign policy.

Sad Story of Law and Love

FILES APPEAL

Plaintiff in Suit to Null Deed Takes Case to Higher Court.

Notice of appeal to the Fifth district court of appeals from a decision handed down in Richland county common pleas court had been filed today by Attys. H. M. Rust and Lewis Brucker for Lottie Culler, Mansfield, plaintiff in a judgment suit.

The appeal was filed after the plaintiff lost her suit to null a deed to a Mansfield property and to have the property sold to pay a judgment for $1,152 against Wade Culler, 485 West Fourth street.

In her original petition, which was dismissed on motion of the defendant, Miss Culler contended that the property involved in the case was transferred to Mrs. Bernice Culler, the defendant's wife, to prevent the plaintiff from obtaining a lien against it for the amount of her unpaid judgment.

Appeal bond was set at $100 by Judge C. H. Huston.

mated it would be more than 10,000.

Milan police recently reported 2,000 Jews had settled there after Germany's absorption of Austria last March 13. A large number also was reported at Turin, and other Austrian refugees have settled in Trieste and other northern Italian cities.

The last Italian census before the war listed 34,324 adherents of Judaism in 1911. A census in 1931 recorded 47,435 persons who professed the Jewish religion.

The settlement of Jews in Italy from now on was prohibited.

The decree defined as Jewish all persons born "of both parents of the Hebrew race regardless of religion."

At the same time the Fascist regime moved to win greater loyalty from the Germanic population of the South Tyrol, ceded to Italy by Austria after the World war.

War veterans who served in the Austrian army were accorded the same pensions as Italian World war veterans.

The cabinet also approved measures to stimulate childbearing by limiting the numbers of women workers and making promotion of men in the civil service dependent on their marital status.

Mail Carrier at Galion 41 Years On Retired List

GALION—A veteran mailman, "Major" Ralph G. Sayre, World war veteran, retired Wednesday at the close of business at the Galion postoffice. He had been city mail carrier since the inauguration of city delivery service in Galion on Sept. 1, 1897. With Assistant Postmaster John E. Woodward, who entered the service the same day, Major Sayre has the distinction of having served in the Galion postoffice for a longer period of time than any other person in the history of the Galion postoffice.

In his 41 years of service, he was given a leave of absence a little more than two years while in the military service, serving both on the Mexican border and later overseas in the World war.

Following his last trip Tuesday, the postoffice employes and two of its honorary members, Laura Claes and S. M. Casey, both retired, honored Major Sayre and presented him with a gift.

His vacancy will be filled by Denny Britton, a substitute carrier, and John R. Beecher will be promoted to substitute carrier.

GETS APPROVAL ON PWA GRANT

Mt. Gilead Allotted $11,900 for Street Improvement Project.

MT. GILEAD—Village officials were notified Wednesday that the application for an $11,900 grant for street repairs had been approved by PWA officials at Washington, D. C.

The grant is the second made the village this month, one for the construction of a $22,000 municipal swimming pool having been approved last week.

Cost estimates prepared by H. D. Schoonover total $26,000 for construction of concrete curb and gutters on approximately one mile of streets in the western section of the town. Property owners will pay a part of the cost and the remainder, $9,000, will represent the village's portion of the cost of the improvement.

Arrangements for advertising the project are being made and the contract will be let the latter part of September, according to Louis Osborne, councilman, who has had charge of negotiations with the federal government. Construction will start in October and the greater part of the project will be completed before spring.

Rural Schools to Keep Complete Record of Pupils

Superintendents and teachers in Richland county consolidated schools will have a complete record of their pupils from the first grade through high school under a new system to be adopted this year throughout the county.

When the pupils enter school this fall they will be required to supply information pertaining to their home life, hobbies, health, employment and any other personal facts that will be of benefit in compiling records for filing.

The information, which will be recorded in a large card folder, will be kept on file in the offices of school superintendents, immediately available when data is needed, Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, said.

The plan was used last year in the Butler, Shiloh and Lucas schools and proved so useful that the county school board adopted it for the entire county, Robinson said.

SCHOOLS GIVEN $56,900 GRANT TO RETIRE NOTES

New Allocation From State Foundation to Meet 60 Per Cent of Loans.

The Ohio department of education today distributed $56,966 to Mansfield and Richland county schools to pay off 60 per cent of their indebtedness under the school foundation program.

The funds must be used to retire notes authorized several weeks ago by the state department when cash was not available for the quarterly distribution of school money. The remaining 40 per cent is scheduled to be distributed about the last of October.

A few rural schools, which were not forced to borrow against the authorization, may use the funds for operating expenses, school officials said.

City Schools Get $27,000.

Mansfield schools received $27,012 in the allocation to apply on an indebtedness amounting to about $45,000. The county schools' share was $29,954, while they were authorized to borrow approximately $50,000 last June. Shelby got $7,653 in the allocation.

The cash distribution follows on the heels of the state's authorization to borrow $106,247 for operation of Mansfield and county schools until money for the current allocation funds is available.

'KEEP COOL' IS KENNEDY WORD

Tells United States Not to Nose Its Head in 'Phone Interview From London.

(By International News Service)
(Copyright, 1938.)

BOSTON — Keep cool—things aren't as bad as they may seem."

This was Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's encouraging message to America in an exclusive trans-Atlantic telephone chat with the Boston Evening American.

"The thing to do here and in the United States is not to lose our heads," the United States ambassador stated when reached after returning from a mid-morning conference with Lord Halifax, British foreign secretary.

"I have just returned to the embassy from a talk with Lord Halifax," Ambassador Kennedy said.

"I'm afraid I cannot tell you half of what you would like to know, but I can promise that there is nothing at the moment to lend further fears to the European situation."

Asked if the English public was solidly behind its cabinet in the international crisis precipitated by the German-Czechoslovakian situation the Boston-born envoy said:

"Yes, very strongly so."

"However," he added quickly, "the Britons won't lose their heads."

Asked if there was not something encouraging to report in the situation, Ambassador Kennedy replied:

"It certainly is not any more discouraging. At this stage of the game, that's a lot to be thankful for."

Ambassador Kennedy declared it was not true that matters were at such a state that he was reporting hourly to Secretary of State Hull and the president.

"I am here at the embassy at all times and if there is necessity I shall communicate," he said.

OPTIMISTS HEAR OF TELEVISION

Westinghouse Official Also Tells of Utilities' Problems.

Television was one of the subjects discussed yesterday noon at the Optimist club luncheon by W. H. Thompson, director of public utility relations for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Thompson, who was presented by Atty. Lewis Brucker, program chairman, talked on problems of the electric utilities and developments on revolutionizing features.

He cited a number of reasons why America does not have television while it is in daily use in England, pointing to technical difficulties, among them limited wave bands for transmitting and the fact that television at the present time carries only about 40 miles, thus necessitating a close network of sending stations. Another difficulty he said was the problem of how to get the sets distributed in such numbers as would promote sponsoring of programs.

PIONEER RACKET BUSTER FINDS REAL ESTATE SCANDAL IN GOTHAM

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Lee Thompson Smith, the citizen who began New York City's racket-busting era, has exposed a scandal in the city real estate bureau.

As a result of his investigation charges were filed against four employes. One, with a salary of $2,400 a year, was found to have $192,000 deposited in 17 banks in his and his family's names. Another who had been on the payroll since 1907, had not worked for years.

Smith was foreman of the "runaway" grand jury of May, 1935. More than any other one man, he was responsible for the appointment of Thomas E. Dewey as "special prosecutor," and the resultant upheaval in law enforcement and politics.

Smith always declined any civic reward until a few months ago when Mayor F. H. La Guardia asked him to take charge of the real estate board. Smith found its records in a mess and began quietly to seek the reason.

Today Smith and William B. Herlands, commissioner of investigation, charged:

1. That William L. Lange, a clerk in its revenue division, employed since 1924 at salaries ranging from $2,000 to $2,400 a year, had banked $192,000 in addition to owning $67,000 in mortgage certificates and deeds, although his father earns only $1,638 as a storekeeper's helper in the education department; his brother earns $1,920 as a clerk, and the rest of his family is unemployed.

2. That Jerome Haney, Lange's boss, had not tried to collect arrears of city properties leased to private individuals.

3. That Charles E. Tracey, head of the leasing division for 10 years, had been absent from work 62 days one year, 71 another year, and 61 another.

4. That Dennis J. Quinn, who has been on the payroll 31 years, checks in and out of his office almost daily but is never there during the working hours and hasn't been for years.

CAUTIOUS DRIVERS CRASH

OROVILLE, Cal. —(U.P.)— When Hal Basim and O. J. Kober, both careful drivers, started backing their machines out of opposite driveways, they both took the usual precautions — except one. Both looked up the street and then down the street, to see that no other car was coming. Then they both continued backing until they crashed into each other, with the most precise timing.

THEATER

THIS AND THAT. Bette Davis was aghast when she learned that a woman's organization of which she was an honorary member, (but she didn't know she was), was under investigation for Communist activities . . . Freddie Bartholomew will start on a personal appearance tour Sept. 15, opening in Providence, R. I. . . . The breaking up of the Richard Arlens after years of matrimony is a surprise to fans if not to friends . . . "Alexander's Ragtime Band" has broken all attendance records which up to now had been held by—you'd never guess—"The Singing Fool," which was either the first or second talkie made . . . Irene Castle is in Hollywood supervising the picture based on her life and that of her first husband, Vernon Castle, who was killed during the war. Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire are making the picture.

Comedy at Madison.

In "Blockheads," which brings Oliver Hardy and Stan Laurel to the Madison theater today for the remainder of the week, the comedians go back to their original formula of ridiculous gags strung together on a chain of rapid action, familiar mannerisms and funny situations. A lack of spectacular sets makes for centering all interest on the action itself. Stan is a front page newspaper celebrity, not through his own initiative however. Hardy is a successful business man taking great pride in his swanky apartment and the housekeeping ability of his wife. In the cast are pert Patricia Ellis, rotund Billy House, Minna Gombell as Hardy's wife, and James Finlayson.

Actor Is Versatile.

A tribute to Edward G. Robinson's ability as an actor is the fact that although he looks and acts like a gangster, he now looks and acts like a fighting crusader on the side of the law in his new picture, "I Am the Law" which opens at the Ohio today. Accustomed to seeing Robinson as a law breaker —his last pictures have shown him as a ruthless killer in The Last Gangster," "A Slight Case of Murder" and "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse"—his followers will find him equally convincing as the mild mannered professor who is enlisted to clean up a city and turns into a fighting fury. Robinson has the support of Wendy Barrie, Otto Kruger, Barbara O'Neil and John Beal.

Newspaper Scoop.

A newspaper reporter's determination to effect a sensational scoop, even at the risk of his own life, is the motive behind the action in "Crime Ring," one of the two features booked for the Majestic tomorrow. Allan Lane and Frances Mercer have the top roles. As a result of a series of mysterious murders that are apparently committed against zealots of fortune telling parlors, Lane, as a reporter, has reason to believe that an organized gang of racketeers is back of the crimes. How he goes about proving his theory, with the aid of the police, makes for action and suspense. "Pioneer Trail" with Jack Luden, is the second feature.

"Sinners In Paradise."

What happens to men and women when they are cut off from all contact with civilization without a minute's warning and left on an uncharted island is pictured in "Sinners In Paradise," a film based on the elemental conflict when human nature comes into open clash with mother nature. Seven people are lost aboard a giant liner when it crosses the Pacific for Asia. All of them are entirely different, live in different stratas and have widely different philosophies. John Boles, Madge Evans, Bruce Cabot, Charlotte Wynters, Gene Lockhart, and others are in the major roles. Gene Autry in "Red River Valley" will round out the Ritz bill for Friday and Saturday.

GAMBLER NON-GAMBLER

NOWATA, Okla.—(U.P.)—Because he was not operating a game of chance, a carnival concessionaire was haled into court here and fined $20. Ofifcers explained that he was running a so-called "gaming stand," all right, but that there was no element of gambling in it—the customer didn't have a chance.

Two Hundred Million People Can't Be Wrong!

IT IS THE Man Who Runs Your Favorite Motion Picture Theatre Speaking: "Yes," he says, "I have heard almost everyone that patronizes my theatre on the subject of screen entertainment. Within the space of a couple of minutes I have heard the same picture enthusiastically applauded and severely criticized, the same stars praised and 'panned.'

"I have come to the conclusion that while the picture that will please everybody, everywhere, will probably never be made, motion pictures, by and large, hit a mighty high average of pleasure-giving. Take any individual picture — and you will find that most people who see it will get a lot of enjoyment out of it.

"Yes, sir, 200,000,000 people can't be wrong and there are at least that many the world over who go to the movies every week. Why? Well, motion pictures can give more happiness to more people at a lot less cost than most anything else the mind of man was ever responsible for. People can go for little money to a comfortable restful theatre—cool in summer and warm in winter—relax, put themselves at peace with the world, sit in quiet darkness and get out of their own lives into another world for two thrilling hours. 'An escape from reality,' psychologists call it, and a mighty pleasant thing too, in much more comfortable surroundings than most of us enjoy in our own homes. The 'movies' have come a long way since I have been in the business and so have motion picture theatres. Sometimes I wonder why there isn't more 'Oh-ing' and 'Ah-ing' at some of the remarkable things that I show on my screen but when I think it over, the answer is easy.

"Today people take the motion picture for granted —just as they take the telephone—and automobile.

"Motion pictures have ceased to be a novelty to be marveled at and have become an entertainment — the greatest the world has ever known."

* * * *

Next year, the "movies" will be fifty years old — fifty years since that October 6th in 1889 when Mr. Edison first revealed the miracle of pictures that moved.

And every week, in the United States and Canada alone, over eighty-eight million people go to the "movies" — sharing romance, excitement, dreams, love and laughter and a kinship with the far corners of the earth.

The motion picture producer is thoroughly conscious of his responsibility. He realizes the compact he holds with the hundreds of millions of people he must entertain — the obligation which is placed upon him by the unique way in which the motion picture has become a part of the daily life of the people . . . its influence on the thoughts and actions of millions. He knows that the motion picture cannot stand still, that it must move forward to greater and greater accomplishments.

The Man Who Runs Your Favorite Theatre will show you — in the list of the pictures which are coming this fall — proof, if proof be needed, that the motion picture is moving steadily forward.

To provide the finest array of productions ever released, the Motion Picture Industry has mobilized all its skill, all its imagination, all its resources.

Great stories, splendidly produced . . . love-filled romance, stirring drama, gay adventure, hilarious comedy, tuneful musicals — star-studded casts filled with your favorites and new faces, new talents, for which the world has been searched. One after another, week after week, these fine pictures are coming to the screen of your favorite theatre.

Entertainment, relaxation, freedom from care are yours in overflowing measure, brought to you by the supreme efforts of the Motion Picture Industry to make this fall season one you will never forget.

Watch for these new season's pictures at your favorite theatre:

FINNEY TAKES OVER POST AS RELIEF CHIEF

Distribution of Food Orders to 1,200, Re-registration of Clients First Duties.

J. V. Finney, newly appointed relief director, today took over his duties of directing the distribution of aid to 1,200 clients in Mansfield and Madison township.

Appointed by Mayor C. H. Hunter Tuesday, Finney replaces Earl A. Nist who was relief administrator for eight months prior to his appointment as service-safety director.

Finney took over the relief duties while distribution was being made of food orders to clients in the two subdivisions.

The relief staff started giving out orders this morning and expected to have the semi-monthly task completed by late today.

Confers With Nist.

Finney, a former clerk of Mansfield's municipal court, has spent the past two days at the relief office, 28 Orange street, getting acquainted with the procedure, and conferring with Nist who leaves the relief job to give full time to the post of service-safety director.

Also among Finney's first duties will be the completion of re-registration and investigation of relief clients. This work was started three weeks ago but had not been entirely completed.

An Associated Press dispatch from Columbus today quoted William C. Dixon, state relief director, as saying he would refuse to certify state funds to counties which have not compiled with the registration requirement.

"All county officials and relief authorities have been given ample time to make re-registrations and investigations," Dixon asserted. "If applicants have not filed reports with this office, I will not certify their fund requests to the state auditors."

Pending a complete check of the re-registration, Dixon said he could not estimate accurately the number of direct relief recipients who would share during the remainder of the year in approximately $5,500,000 in state relief funds. Local communities must match state grants, dollar for dollar.

Finds Youth 24, Held Prisoner In Shack Two Years

DE KALB, Ill.—(AP)—A disclosure that a young man had been confined for two years in his parents' home, much of the time in an unventilated, windowless room, prompted an investigation today by authorities.

Emaciated, clad only in dirty underwear, his hair long and matted, Vincent Redmond, 24, was discovered in the dark room by Deputy Sheriff Lymon Sebree.

The deputy had gone to the tar paper shack of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Redmond to serve a warrant charging them with malicious mischief in connection with a fence dispute.

A locked door aroused Sebree's curiosity, he said, and when he battered it down he found young Redmond.

Sebree said the parents refused to discuss their son's confinement but that he had learned the young man had been a virtual prisoner for two years. They were lodged at the county jail in Sycamore pending a hearing on the malicious mischief charge.

HEADS PROGRAM

MT. GILEAD — M. V. Douce, chairman of the committee in charge of the federal program in Morrow county, today announced the appointment of C. C. Pinyard, Canaan township farmer, as supervisor of the crop insurance program in the county.

Applications for loans on 1938 wheat are now being taken at the conservation office in Mt. Gilead, several having been received within the past two days. An inspection of granaries will be made immediately after the application is filed to determine if it conforms to government requirements.

NOTICE TO TAX PAYERS

Notice is hereby given that the returns and assessments of real property of Richland County, Ohio for the tax year 1938 have been equalized and revised by the Richland County Board of Revision. The values are completed and are open for public inspection in the Real Estate Department of the County Auditor's office, Mansfield, Ohio.

Complaint against any values or assessments of real property, except values and assessments made by the Tax Commission of Ohio, will be heard by the Richland County Board of Revision at the Court House in Mansfield, Ohio at its next regular meeting.

Complaints must be made in writing by the owner of the property on blanks furnished by the County Auditor and filed at the Auditor's office on or before the time limited for payment of taxes for the first half year.

Many property owners are of the opinion that real estate is appraised at a certain per cent of its true value. This is erroneous as the Constitution and Law of Ohio provides that real estate be appraised at 100% of its true value. In making the present equalization of values the Board of Revision has attempted to carry out this law on a reasonable basis.

The willingness of a complainant to sell property at the assessed value does not necessarily constitute a reason for reduction nor does the purchase price of a property at a forced sale necessarily fix the tax value. The law requires consideration of all factors and the Board must consider rental, sales, reproduction costs, asking price, book values, insurance values, amount of mortgages, etc.

Since the last actual reappraisal in 1925 a blanket reduction of approximately 40% has been allowed on all real estate values in the County. Since that date a great many changes in the value of real estate have occurred. It is the object of this appraisal to recognize these changes and to assess each property on as fair basis as possible.

The Auditor, upon request, will furnish to any person the assessment of any tract, lot or parcel of real estate upon receipt of postage and last tax bill.

NORMAN L. WOLFE, AUDITOR
RICHLAND COUNTY.

HITS TRAIL IN COWBOY GAME

14-Year-Old Put In Box Car—Goes On Lengthy Ride.

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)—Playing cowboy, 14-year-old Charles Luther Fields hit the trail in a box car—but it wasn't his fault.

Two playmates roped and bound him in a railroad yard near his home in Hamilton, O.

They put him in a freight car. Before they could get him out, the train pulled away toward Indianapolis.

Railroad detectives here found the boy and notified his relatives.

seconds and three thirds with 13 entries.

In the Raemelton entries, a yearling bull took two first prize ribbons, one in the yearling class and another as junior yearly champion. A seven-year-old Guernsey cow won a first place award in her class.

In herd classifications, Raemelton entries of four animals each won two firsts. One of the groups included four young cows and the other, a bull and three heifers. Otto Kline is the Raemelton superintendent.

The Maxwalton entries won first prizes in the yearling heifer, yearling calf and pair of yearling calves classifications. Other Shorthorn entries of the same farm won eight seconds and three thirds. The Maxwalton farms are managed by Wallace Campbell.

Both the Raemelton and Maxwalton farms have exhibited at the state fair and other nationally known stock shows for a number years, their entries winning national recognition.

A United Press dispatch from Columbus today said a Howard Backenstel, Mansfield, was treated for a head injury at the fair yesterday after the car in which he was riding hit a bump, throwing him against a cross beam in the roof. A physician used three clips to close the wound in Backenstel's head.

The Mansfield city directory lists no one by the name of Backenstel.

Voting Machines Become Issue In Suit On Election

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The use of voting machines in Trumbull county at the Aug. 9 primary provided the basis for an election suit by Frank H. Ward of Columbus, who has asked the state supreme court to declare him winner of the Republican nomination for a six weeks' term on the supreme court.

The secretary of state has declared A. K. Allen of Cleveland the winner.

Ward contended in a mandamus suit that the use of voting machines prevented a rotation of the names of candidates on the ballot and that Trumbull county voters were not afforded a sufficient opportunity to express their preference.

He filed figures showing that he led Allen in all other counties by a total margin of 800 votes, but that in Trumbull, Allen obtained 2,798 votes to Ward's 524.

The court granted an alternative write requiring the secretary of state to answer the suit by Sept. 17th.

RITES FRIDAY

NEW LONDON—Funeral services for Guy Parks, 37, who died at his home here Tuesday afternoon, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday at the Sackett funeral home. Rev. W. H. Mitchell of the First Methodist church will officiate, and burial will be in the Grove street cemetery.

Although Mr. Parks had been in ill health for several weeks, his death was unexpected.

Fredericktown Church Observes Its Centennial

FREDERICKTOWN—Two former pastors of the Baptist church returned to Fredericktown over the week-end to speak at the 100th anniversary observance of the founding of the church.

They were Rev. B. G. Bowman of Wauseon, who was pastor here 40 years ago, and Rev. Willis Webb, Toledo, who was on the Fredericktown charge 21 years ago. Dr. Steward of Granville also spoke during the two-day celebration.

More than 300 persons attended the observance program, including former Fredericktown residents from six states.

Five of the oldest members of the church were given flowers. Those who were paid recognition were Mrs. Ella Porter, a member for 70 years; Mrs. Hallie Hardwidge, for 61 years; Mrs. Ada Studor, 58 years; Mrs. Isabelle Studor, 51 years, and Mrs. Zella Hall, 49 years.

Mrs. Herbert Leedy read a history of the church, and Miss Struble, of Cincinnati, told of her associations with the church for many years. She said she remembered three of the five constitutional members of the church.

GROUP ELECTS

MILLERSBURG — At a recent meeting of the executive heads of schools and township leaders at the office of the county board of education the following were elected for the Holmes County Teachers' association: J. F. Jameson, Big Prairie, president; J. G. Bateman, Glenmont, vice president; Roy Stallman, Holmesville, secretary-treasurer; D. C. Egger, Killbuck, Eldon Youngen, Lakeville, committee members.

HEADS ZANESVILLE SCHOOLS

ZANESVILLE — (INS) — Kenneth C. Ray, former Athens county school superintendent, began a three-year term as head of the city school system today. He succeeds C. T. Prose who held the post 12 years.

FINISH HOLMES FAIR PROGRAM

15th Annual Exposition to Open Wednesday; Pageant Feature Attraction.

MILLERSBURG—The fifteenth annual Holmes county fair will open Wednesday, Sept. 7, at 5 p. m., with a varied program.

The outstanding feature of the fair will be an historical pageant which will be presented each evening of the fair. The seven subordinate granges of the county are sponsoring the pageant which will have 460 in the cast. The history of Holmes county from the beginning to the present time will be depicted in 18 episodes under direction of Miss Robinson of the Rogers Producing company of Fostoria.

Advance sale of tickets for the fair and pageant is well under way with ten girls of Holmes county competing in a popularity contest and the one having the most votes through the sale of tickets will be crowned Miss Holmes County. The runner-up will be chosen Miss Columbia and the remaining eight girls will serve as attendants. The contest will close Saturday evening, Sept. 3. Harry Caton, secretary of the National Grange, will be present Wednesday evening to crown the queen of the pageant.

The Swiss Harmony Singers, a quintet of Swiss singers and accordionists who have just returned from a tour of Switzerland, have been obtained for the fair.

Judging will be started Thursday with agricultural products, grange displays, poultry, hogs and horses judged on that day. Dairy cattle and sheep will be judged Friday morning.

LUCAS HOST TO LUTHER LEAGUE

Annual Convention of Central Conference to Be Held on Sunday and Monday.

The annual Luther league convention of the Central conference of the Synod of Ohio will be held Sunday and Monday at St. Paul's and Pleasant Valley Lutheran churches at Lucas.

Services and meetings will be conducted both days, and will be in charge of pastors and Luther league workers from the conference. A communion service Sunday evening will be in charge of Rev. Richard C. Wolf, pastor of the Plymouth Evangelical Lutheran church. He will preach on the subject, "Let Us Draw Near."

The opening session, Monday, Labor day, will be addressed by Rev. K. J. Bishop of Adamsville, who will talk on "Let Us Reason Together." Other talks will be given by Miss Elizabeth Roemer of Zanesville, Ben Tilley of Ashland, and Miss Fern Buchholtz of Roseville. Glenn Mowers of Lucas will act as discussion leader.

The concluding service of the convention will be held Monday afternoon with Rev. Harold Lentz of Ashland as the speaker. His subject will be "Let Us Go On."

The Lucas Luther league, of which Leo Berry is president, will act as host to the convention. Business sessions will be presided over by Richard Smith of Mansfield, conference president.

Other officers are Virgil Wertz, Ashland, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Roemer, Zanesville, vice president; Miss Eleanor Graff, Newark, secretary, and Sydney Greiner, Zanesville, treasurer.

PLEADS GUILTY

MILLERSBURG—Ed Pyers of Ripley township pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated when arraigned before Common Pleas Judge R. B. Putnam. He was sentenced to serve 30 days in the workhouse, fined $50 and costs and had his driving license revoked for one year. The workhouse sentence was suspended and $30 of the fine.

LET CONTRACT

Ashland Commissioners Accept $56,112 Bid on Roads.

ASHLAND — County commissioners have awarded the contract for resurfacing 41.21 miles of highway in the county to a Tiffin firm, the Louis Dehmer Inc., whose bid for the job was $56,112.30, or $11,902.29 less than the estimate for the project as given by I. G. Shenberger, engineer.

Resurfacing of the roads will be carried on as a PWA project, and work on the roads here will probably be started within 15 days.

Roads to be affected by the project include Nos. 1, 236, 46, 70, 155, 56, 57, 62, 73, 132, 125, 105, 120, 106 and 105 E.

MT. GILEAD — The McMillin school reunion will be held at the school Sunday, Sept. 11, it was announced today. Former teachers and pupils are invited.

NEW PASTOR AT GALION ARRIVES

Rev. W. A. Martin Takes Over Duties Sunday at First Presbyterian Church.

GALION — Rev. William A. Martin, new pastor of First Presbyterian church here, will preach his first sermon Sunday.

Rev. Martin, his wife and sister-in-law, Agnes Harbourt, arrived in Galion Wednesday to make their home in the Presbyterian manse on West Atwood street.

For the past three weeks they have been vacationing in New York, N. Y., where Rev. Martin visited his mother, a sister and two brothers.

Rev. Martin's last pastorate was at Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, where he had served for the past eight years. Prior to that he had a pastorate at Vincent. He is a graduate of Waynesburg, Pa., college, and the Xenia Theological school of St. Louis, Mo.

He was born in England, raised in Ireland, and came to the United States in 1916 for his education. He has lived here since that time.

He came to Galion on June 28 as a candidate for the Galion pastorate.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1938.

It appears that "conditions in the South" have become such that people down there don't notice them.

Schooling is important—we are now suffering from the effects of letting a generation of statesmen grow up without learning arithmetic.

It does at least seem passing strange that so many stalwart Democrats are being read out of the party to which they contributed so much.

Voters Turn Down Roosevelt Favorites.

DEFEAT of Roosevelt-supported senatorial candidates at Tuesday's primaries in South Carolina and California reflects not only the extent of anti-New Deal sentiment among Democrats but also serves to rebuke the President for his interference in state politics.

The South Carolina situation provided the first clear-cut test of strength in an attempt of President Roosevelt to "purge" a United States senator who has opposed some of his New Deal policies.

Renomination of 74-year-old Senator Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith marked a definite refusal on the part of a majority of South Carolina Democrats to follow President Roosevelt's instructions to nominate 41-year-old Governor Olin D. Johnston, an avowed 100-per cent New Dealer, whereas Senator Smith had stood opposed to some Rooseveltian policies.

While the issues in California were not so clearly defined, it was in that state that President Roosevelt did more campaigning for Senator McAdoo than for any other candidate in this year's primaries.

In the four-way Democratic senatorial race in California, McAdoo was defeated by Sheridan Downey, ardent advocate of a pension plan which proposes payment of $30 every Thursday to all jobless persons over 50 years of age.

This "plan," which is even a step ahead of the New Deal in economic absurdity, is to be voted on by Californians in November and is said to have "taken the state by storm," much as its predecessor, the Townsend plan, did a few years ago. Both President Roosevelt and Senator McAdoo censured the plan as unsound and Utopian—apparently failing to appreciate that it is a logical aftermath of the fallacious New Deal thinking that has been encouraged by the federal administration for the past five years.

Expression of views by representative Mansfield Democrats on the results in South Carolina and California indicate that, regardless of opinions on Roosevelt policies in general, there is almost universal condemnation of his efforts to dictate to voters of various states in senatorial and congressional contests.

Next comes the Maryland test, Monday, Sept. 12, in which President Roosevelt is fighting against the renomination of Senator Millard E. Tydings, who has also had the temerity to think for himself. Two days afterward will come the Georgia battle—possibly bitterest of them all—in which the President is seeking to unseat veteran Senator Walter F. George, whose qualities of statesmanship have made it impossible for him to keep pace with Rooseveltian vagaries.

Supporters of Senator George in Georgia are heartened by the outcome in adjacent and similar-thinking South Carolina.

Peace By Mathematics.

THE learned British association for the advancement of science always turns out items of interest not only to scientists but to ordinary folk as well. At a recent meeting of its section on psychology, Prof. Lewis F. Richardson of Paisley mixed mathematics with psychology to prove that there isn't much danger of general war. The conclusion, if true, is welcome to the world, by whatever route arrived at. The path taken by Prof. Paisley was certainly unusual. Says the New York Times:

> "The professor reduced to beautiful differential equations general tendencies common to all nations—resentment of defiance, the suspicion that defense is concealed aggression, response to imports by exports, restraint on armaments by the difficulty of paying for them and, last, grievances and their irrationality. The psychologists were bewildered and amused."

He treated love and hate as if they were X and Y, then worked out the forces leading toward co-operation and those tending toward suspicion and separation.

When he got all through with his psychological algebra, he believed that he had proved that there was no chance of war.

A line of scripture balances these tendencies much more easily—"Perfect love casteth out fear," and a well-known proverb shows the method—"Who would have friends must show himself friendly." But it is always comforting to have words backed up by mathematics.

Wealth In Bonded Whisky.

THERE is now in the American liquor market what looks like an overproduction of whisky. Stocks on June 30, the alcohol administrator reports, reached a record total of 471,000,000 gallons. And that is only the supply stored in bonded warehouses. There is of course a large quantity in wholesale and retail stores, not to mention the supply in private storage. And more is being produced all the time.

When you consider such figures, it certainly looks as if the liquor business is being overplayed since the country turned from unenforceable prohibition to self-imposed "moderation."

Is all that whisky piling up because people are temperate now, and refuse to drink it as fast as it is made? Production has dropped from 20,000,000 gallons a month to 9,000,000 gallons.

Attention, however, reverts to those 471,000,000 gallons in storage. Suppose, now, the nation contented itself with drinking only a quantity equal to the current production and letting the bonded liquor rise to a round half a billion gallons. As it ages it gains value. If allowed to age twenty or thirty years it might almost pay the national debt.

We seem to be slowly evolving an economic system where everybody will live on aid he gets from other people, something like everybody taking in everybody else's washing.

It's again making the rounds—the roadside sign that says: "Nothing sold here on Sunday. And very little during the week."

Watching Trends

(In yesterday's column, Harry C. Hawkins, chief of the State Department's division of trade agreements, stated the case for reciprocal trade agreements. Here a prominent Republican senator gives the case for the opposition.)

By H. STYLES BRIDGES
U. S. Senator from New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H.—In 1929 the United States had the largest foreign trade of any single area in the world. By 1932, based on gold value, our percentage of the total world exports had dropped from 14.6 per cent in 1929 to 12.2 per cent. Our proportion of total world exports declined from 11.2 per cent in 1929 to 9.5 per cent in 1932.

In 1936 our percentage of world trade was 11.4 per cent for exports and 10.9 for imports. This shows how our proportion of world exports has decreased while our percentage share of world imports has increased to the detriment of our domestic industries and to the enhancement of foreign products.

The figures show that our 1936 foreign trade position was improved less than one-half of one per cent over the 1932 level, but this improvement was due to the increase in imports since our relative export condition is well below 1932, as is also the situation for 1937.

The reciprocal trade agreement act, passed by a rubber-stamp congress, gives the president power among other things to negotiate foreign trade treaties without the advice and consent of the senate, contrary to the United States constitution, to raise or lower rates of duty 50 per cent without definite standards established by congress for such action; to fix the level of rates and to grant this preferential rate to all nations.

Barriers Increased.

THESE powers were granted to the president for three years but, by the language of the bill, the life of the treaties can be indefinite or for any term the president may approve. Thus, we may be committed to a foolish, detrimental policy in a treaty for years to come.

It is impossible to separate the effects of the agreements already made and of other New Deal policies, such as price raising and restriction of production in agriculture and industry, and fiscal and monetary policies.

The agreements were supposed to break down trade barriers. It is obvious from the figures that these barriers have increased, while other nations have improved their positions at the expense of the United States. This act permits the lowering of our tariffs without reference to domestic production costs and thereby jeopardizes all American agriculture, labor and industry; undermines the American wage level and threatens our American standard of living.

Wants Public Hearings

I AM for a policy of real reciprocity but I am opposed to granting the powers of the present act to the president without restriction. It is giving him a blank check on the very life-blood of our industries and the working men and women of the nation. The New Deal, through "free trade" treaties, has sent millions of good American dollars to the worst sweatshops in the world, while many of our own industries are idle and millions of our own workers walk the streets in idleness and want.

I believe the first act of the next congress should be to provide that tariff rates shall not be reduced below the amount necessary to protect American producers. We should have mandatory public notice of commodities under consideration 90 days in advance of the negotiation of a treaty. We should have mandatory public hearings before the same agency that negotiates the treaty.

We should make it illegal to import any commodity, which is produced in this country in a commercial way, below the average American cost of production. It is brutally and frankly true that the policy of this administration which has been followed has served only to worry business—big and little—to block initiative and stop the expansion of industry.

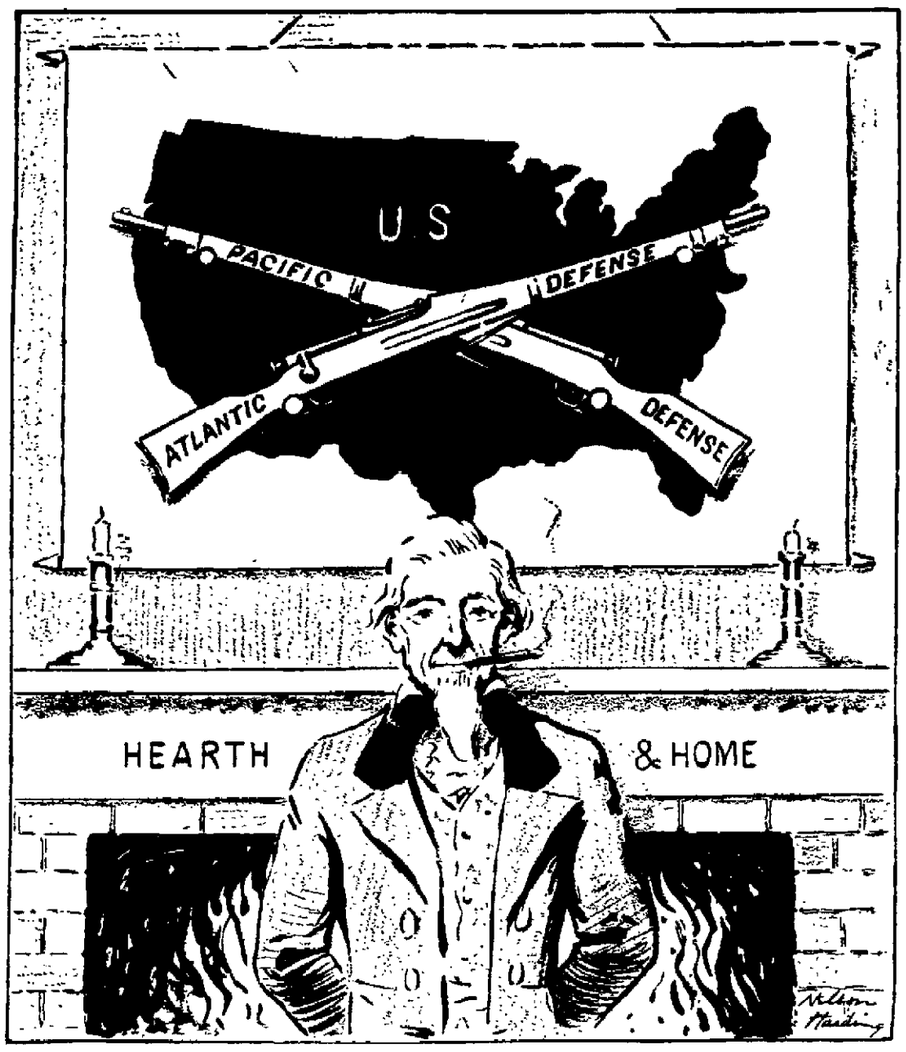
THEY BELONG ON THE MAP



What Concessions Will Be Made?

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Republican National Chairman John Hamilton, while welcoming anti-New Deal Democrats to the G. O. P. fold, has made it clear that his policy is to receive them only as converts to Republicanism. They musn't come in, he explains, with any idea of diluting the Republican party.

However, this attitude is more or less personal to Hamilton.

I meet a considerable number of Republicans who hold that their party must make concessions.

Their reasoning is that, until the New Deal's advent, orthodox Republicans and orthodox Democrats had no important issue between them. Now there is an issue (in fact, many issues) between New Dealers on one side and anti-New Dealers on the other side. By anti-New Dealers they mean Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats. The New Dealers, they say, can afford to be exclusive, being in a plurality over the various groups of "antis." But a plurality is not necessarily a majority-over-all. If the disunited anti groups can be consolidated, maybe their consolidation will prove to be predominant over its opposition.

BELITTLE HAMILTON

Thus the argument of the Republican element which disagrees with Chairman Hamilton.

Hamilton, after all, is not regarded by competent Republican politicians as a manager of any consequence. Certainly he never will direct another G.O.P. campaign. Consequently what he says now is of small importance in its bearing on his party's policy in the comparatively near future.

Plenty of influential Republicans are more than willing to bid for anti-New Deal Democrats by offering them almost anything they insist on.

For example, they are prepared to get in line on states' rights.

They always have been high tariff-ites. They're inclined to yield on that point. They're ready to nominate erstwhile Democrats upon Republican tickets. To prevent the New Dealers from gaining control of the northern Negro vote they're disposed to continue suppression of the southern Negro vote.

READY TO ACQUIESCE

In short, Republicanism stands by to acquiesce in nearly anything that promises to entice anti-New Deal Democratic voters.

It wouldn't go so far as to sacrifice its name—Republican.

But there is not much it would hesitate to do short of that. Hamilton wouldn't. He is a G. O. P. stand-patter. But sensible Republican politicians would. And Hamilton soon is to be wished into the background.

PURGING ISSUE

Republicans are hopeful of a still worse Democratic split.

"Pro" and "anti" New Deal Democrats are split already. What Republicans are praying for is an intra-New Deal split.

Jim Farley didn't want a purge. F. D. R. proceeded on his western trip and didn't do much purging. He expressed a few preferences, but very moderately. Since his return, however, he has purged like sixty. It's no news that Farley didn't like it.

Obviously a clash between F. D. R. and Farley would be New Dealerishly very disorganizing.

F. D.'s and Jim's views conflict in spots.

Suppose they do so irreconcilably at some juncture—an "incident" is created. Just such an incident as, internationally speaking, sometimes starts a war!

Mother O'Leary's lantern is kicked over—an inconsequential thing, but the Chicago fire ensues.

FORLORN HOPE?

That's what the G.O.P. is gambling on.

It's a forlorn hope maybe.

Such things happen, nevertheless.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Sept. 1, 1918.

Use of gasoline for pleasure driving on Sunday was banned as war measure, to conserve supply.

Miss Thurza M. Davey and William J. Hazeltine were married by Rev. William R. Polhamus.

Miss Alice McCally arrived from Washington, D. C., to visit her parents.

Mrs. John Cook, 67, died at her home on Grace street.

Lieut. William R. Marquis was home from Camp Custer to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Marquis.

Mrs. H. M. Krebs was brought home from Green Springs where she had been for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Van C. Cook were visiting in Wabash, Ind.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Sept. 1, 1933.

Clyde Schantz, 25, Shelby, employe of the Shelby Power and Light company, was electrocuted when he came in contact with "live" wire while on repair job.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip J. Carroll moved from West Third street residence to 384 Park avenue west.

Floyd W. Ferguson and Lloyd C. Utz, Mansfield, won awards in pistol shoot at Cedar Point, staged by Ohio Brotherhood of Police Officers.

Madison lodge, Knights of Pythias and the Pythian Sisters, held picnic at North Lake park.

Miss Marguerite Fulmer, Greer, became bride of Gerald J. Swank, Mansfield, at Greer M. E. church.

The Franco-Prussian war ended on Sept. 1, 1870 at Sedan on the River Meuse, when Napoleon III surrendered to King William of Prussia.

Health Advice

Diphtheria Immunization First Precaution.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TODAY the one fundamentally necessary preparation for the child who enters school for the first time is to be immunized against diphtheria.

By carrying out this procedure on a widespread scale, it has been possible almost to wipe this ancient scourge off the face of the earth. It is one of the most astonishing accomplishments of the modern age. It takes a moment of thought to realize how great and important the change has been. There are, indeed, today, few young parents who realize the cold grip of fear that clutched the hearts of their predecessors—the young parents of fifty years ago—when the thought of diphtheria came to them.

The disease would run through whole schoolrooms, neighborhoods and families, striking down the children of five to ten years of age, in most instances. When it came, there was nothing certain to do about it. Mothers would sit for nights by the beds of the feverish little victims, waiting to dislodge the membrane if it should cover the breathing aperture. This was futile, but general gossip made them feel they should do it. Even so, death occurred, under the best of circumstances, in about a third of the cases.

Now all this is changed. The horror is gone. In the first place, if diphtheria does strike, there is antitoxin as a form of treatment, which, if given early, will save 33 cases out of a hundred.

Spread Can Be Controlled.

But far more important than that, is that the spread of the disease can be entirely controlled by giving active immunization. This is done by the hypodermic injection of diphtheria toxoid. Toxoid is the toxin of diphtheria which has been incubated at 38 degrees to 40 degrees centigrade for four to six weeks. This causes it to lose its toxicity, but it retains its antigenic properties—that is, it retains the property to cause the body to produce its own antitoxin and immune substances against diphtheria.

It is recommended that this immunization be given to the infant on reaching the age of one year. It is imperative that it be given to children before they enter school for the first time.

What this has done to the incidence of the terrific old plague, when carried out on a large scale is, as I have said at the beginning, simply astonishing. In well immunized communities the disease has been reduced to the vanishing point.

Even though it were to reach the vanishing point, however, it must still be carried out, because contagious diseases have a way of sticking around, no matter how little one sees of them, and breaking out at some inopportune moment.

Nurses entering training schools should all also be immunized in this way. Especially is this true of girls coming from rural communities. In cities, contact immunity develops very widely, but these country-bred girls are found to be susceptible to diphtheria in about 80 per cent of cases.

WORDS OF THE WISE

The only man to me who is not respectable is the man who consumes more than he produces.—Elbert Hubbard.

There are many people who think that Sunday is a sponge to wipe out all the sins of the week. —Henry Ward Beecher.

A Farmer's Diary

The Dust Bath.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

DRIVING slowly in my car, where the road cuts through our farm, I nearly ran over a small, gray hen, no bigger than a young Leghorn. She ran across the road, dragging her wings so heavily that I could hear the feathers grit upon the loose gravel. I stopped for fear of injuring her, and then I saw it was a mother pheasant. Quite different from her mate, the brilliant, ring-necked cock, she wears a modest, quiet plumage. She quickly disappeared into the tall grass.

I drove my car over the hill, parked it at the entrance to our drive, and prepared to do a little sleuthing. The ditch at this point, is deep, and overgrown with weeds. I crept along in it, entirely hidden. Everything was quiet, and presently through the long grass at eye level, I saw the little hen stand in the middle of the road and look about, with head high.

Then she gave a cluck, so winsome and sweet and inviting that it touched my heart, and I saw eight little youngsters march like soldiers out of the roadside ditch. Two startled me by running out almost from beneath my hands.

The mother wallowed in the dust of the road, while the brood looked on. She rose, and shook herself, three different times, then stood and watched two of her foremost youngsters lie on their sides and bathe awkwardly in the dust. Soon the entire family was flopping wings and legs in high pheasant glee. Just as they had seen their mother do, one little chick and then another, rose and shook itself, until the entire brood stood in the middle of the road, shaking and rustling their wings.

When this was over, she slowly led them through the grass into the sheltering brush of the meadow fence. I heard her pleasant, maternal call, that kept the family close together long after she had left my view.

Listen, World!

You CAN Come Back!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

LISTEN, YOU!
Yes, I mean YOU!
You, sitting there—
Heart-weary woman—
In a kitchen chair—
Eyeing your dirty dishes—
Head-weary man
Staring at your littered desk—
Desperate derelict,
Huddled over your
Booze-swilled table—
Feeling you're through—
Feeling you're licked—
Listen, You!
IT'S NOT TRUE!
YOU'RE NOT THROUGH!
YOU'RE NOT LICKED!
YOU CAN COME BACK!

Straighten that spine—
Cut out that whine—
Mop up that chin
And listen in—
I'M TALKING TO YOU—
I'M TELLING YOU TRUE,
IT'S A LIE.
YOU'RE NOT THROUGH—
YOU-CAN-COME-BACK!

No matter how far
You've slipped--
No matter how low
You've fallen—
No matter how crushed
You are by heartbreak—
Or seared by humiliation—
Or drained by failure—
Or poisoned by hate—
It still is true
You can win through
YOU CAN COME BACK!

You can come back!
Nothing's holding you
Except your own fear—
Nothing's binding you
Except your own hurt—
Nothing can wreck you
Except your own surrender!
We get what we rate—
We build our own Fate!
LIFE ISN'T THE SUM
OF WHAT HAPPENS TO US—
LUCK ISN'T AN ACCIDENT
THAT TUMBLES UPON US—LIFE IS AS
WE TAKE IT—
LUCK IS WHAT WE MAKE IT—
YOU CAN STAY LICKED
OR YOU CAN COME BACK—
IT'S UP TO YOU!

"But why should I stay down
"If I can stand up?"
You ask.
This is why—
Because it's easier
To Give In Than Get Going—
Easier to Blubber
Than Battle—
Easier to be
Sorry for yourself,
Than to kick yourself
Into action.
For the lazy
And the cowardly
And the vain—
Grief Is a Swell Hide-Out—
Remorse Is a Grand Racket—
Failure Is a Blanket Alibi—
And Despair Is
The Center of the Stage!

"But I haven't
"What it takes,"
You still whine—
Yes, you have!
You have all
Anyone needs—
This isn't all of you.
This exhausted flesh,
This bewildered brain,
This befouled reputation—
These are not all
Of any man or woman—
There is something more—
Something finer and stronger
Than this befuddled self
Which is taking the count—
There Is That Secret Self,
That Nobler Self
You Were Meant to Be—
And With That Self
You Can Come Back!

Others may not know
That secret self
But you know it—
You remember
The dreams it dreamed,
The vows it vowed—
The shining trails
It planned to tread—
When you were young
And brave and sure—
You remember that Secret Self.
Even in your shame
Your bewilderment
And collapse
You remember it—
And why?
Here's why—
Because it is
Your real Self—
Your conquering
And immortal Self—
The Self which God
Lit within you
When, long ago,
He breathed His spark
Into your poor, weak clay.

YOU CAN COME BACK!
And this is why
You can come back—
Because, despite
All failure and folly,
All heartbreak and humiliation,
There is, within you,
An Immortal Spark—
An Unconquerable Part—
A Part of GOD, HIMSELF!

Listen, You!
You in that cluttered kitchen,
That littered office,
That bawdy saloon,
Lift up your head
And believe—
YOU CAN COME BACK
WHENEVER YOU CHOOSE!
For there is something in you
Which will not stay licked—
Which will not stay fouled—
Something that is
Tall and shining—
Something that is
Fierce and fighting—
Something that is—
GOD—
AND THAT GOD IN YOU WILL BRING YOU BACK!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—"A tis-ket . . . a tas-ket . . . a green and yellow basket." . . . If I don't quit singing this I'm going crazy. It's been running through my mind for days. They've been swinging hymns for months, and now they're after Mother Goose rhymes. Is nothing sacred?

New York seems different today. It must be the weather. It smells like October but it's only September. New York paces itself to a faster tempo in cooler weather. The empty theaters shake off that fey look. People are working inside. Scenic designers are building new sets. Directors are trying not to lose patience with backward actors ("Dear boy, do it my way") and the costume makers are busy fashioning new costumes and gowns.

The sidewalk cafes prepare for a last stretch of Indian summer. Then the awnings and the brightly covered canopies come down. Ice skates and ski toggery crowd into Fifth avenue shop windows. Buyers lay in enormous quantities of Thanksgiving, Hallowe'en, and Christmas confections. People on the street lose that jaded look. The bay gets choppier with the freshened breeze.

Only the pigeons and the gulls are unchanged. All New York responds to this imperceptible difference—but they give no indication of a changing season. Funny birds, gulls and pigeons. They thrive here. There are millions of them. No one pays them any heed.

YOU see less white linens now. You see more dinner jackets in the evening. The ticket brokers are beginning to open shop. The hack drivers are happier. They will freeze when winter somes but they'll have more, and longer, fares. The hack drivers argue baseball violently. They are a raucous guild at times. They make the most terrifying faces you can imagine—at one another. But they seldom come to blows.

The Faithful who trudge around the reservoir in Central park every day have a more brisk step. Chefs spend less time on salads, more time on meats. Bar drinks take on that red hue, and the glasses are less frosted.

Pretty soon the world series will be here, and football. Then, some fine nippy morning the first chestnut vendor, with his charcoal burner, will take up his stand by the subway station, and the long, cold haul will have come to New York.

That's the infallible sign here. In your town it may be the cry of a wild goose, or the brittle snap of celery. But in New York it's the chestnut vendor who officially brings the season.

LET 'er rip. Let 'er snow. It's been a fine summer. Hot, you bet! It's been a pretty good summer. On occasion the fish bit with greedy enthusiasm. I had a fine trip up to the Sacandaga. I had a fine trip to Connecticut. I had a dream of a trip to New Orleans.

Ready for winter now and New York. From now till February is the best time to be in New York. More excitement. More new plays. More people come home with intriguing tales of wandering. Less malaria. More genuinely ruddy complexions. Everybody feeling fine, everybody feeling tip-tip. Everybody apple-cheeked.

Pardon my enthusiasm, ladies and gentlemen, but the patient's on the mend. For the first time in months New York really looks alive.

THE Gypsy Trail IS CALLING YOU!

THE MAJESTIC OHIO RIVER near Gallipolis.

"Follow the beautiful, winding OHIO!"

...says World Adventurer BURTON HOLMES

● "Come on, let's go gypsying. Pack up a few duds, hide cares away and get into the car. It's not far; right here in Ohio is a real gypsy trail—along the beautiful river that bears your State's name.

"Let's start at Marietta, and follow the majestic sweep of the Ohio to Gallipolis. The Ohio is truly a river of history. Here the first explorers paddled their way through strange and unknown waters, surveying the mighty expanse that later was to become the great midwest of today.

"Let's stop for a moment at Blennerhassett Island near Marietta. Here was the scene of one of the most fantastic plots ever conceived...that of Aaron Burr to become an American Napoleon. On downstream, where the Ohio sweeps south through the hills in mighty, sinuous curves to form the letter 'W,' you will find at Buffington Island, the scene of the only Civil War battle fought on Ohio soil, between General Morgan's Confederate Cavalry and the Federal Forces. And at Pomeroy there's a majestic sweeping bend in the Ohio that just took my camera by force. Don't miss it!

"On down the trail . . . take a peek at Dean Forest near Ironton. Just a jaunt from Portsmouth is Roosevelt Game Preserve . . . 9,000 acres of safety for wild life.

"Over to the west, between Portsmouth and Hillsboro, is one of the most awe-inspiring monuments I've ever seen . . . Pyramids and Sphinx notwithstanding. There in Serpent Mound Park lies the greatest prehistoric effigy known . . . the Great Serpent Mound. Who were its builders . . . what fantastic rites were performed at its base? Only the serpent knows as it lies there—a quarter-of-a-mile long, huge, coiling, with jaws extended as if in the act of swallowing an egg.

"Back to the trail and to our gypsying to see the Rankin home at Ripley. Remember that famous book 'Uncle Tom's Cabin?' Well here's the spot where Eliza crossed the ice!

"Old river boat steamers too! On to Cincinnati for a glimpse of the last of those palatial carriers that made romance and adventure along our gypsy trail . . . the Ohio.

"Have you enjoyed learning about these few spots? Then get the free Guide-Book, 'Let's Explore Ohio!' that all SOHIO stations offer and try roaming on your own! The roads are fine, driving is exhilarating—that's the way to really enjoy Ohio!'"

MEDICAL GROUP HOLDS REGIONAL LECTURES HERE

300 Physicians Expected Next Wednesday for Opening of Post Graduate Course.

More than 300 physicians from 13 north-central Ohio counties are expected to be in Mansfield next Wednesday evening for the opening session of the Ohio State Medical association's regional post graduate lecture course, Dr. Mabel Emery of Mansfield, chairman of the committee on arrangements, said today.

Designed as a five-year educational project for the medical profession, a series of eight meetings will be conducted at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, with the final session scheduled for Dec 15. Lectures will be given by leading Ohio physicians every two weeks on Wednesday nights, until the final meeting, which will be on Thursday night.

Sessions are scheduled for Sept. 7 and 21, Oct. 5 and 19, Nov. 2, 16 and 30, and Dec. 15.

2 Speak At First Session.

Speakers at the first session will be Dr Roy W. Scott and Dr. Clyde L Cummer, both of Cleveland. Dr. Scott will talk on "Clinical Aspects of Arteriosclerosis," and Dr. Cummer's topic will be "Treatment of Early Syphilis."

Dr. Cummer is state chairman of the committee in charge of the lecture series.

Dr. W. W. Peirce, Mansfield, a member of the regional committee in charge of the course, will lecture at the Nov 16 meeting on "Prenatal and Postnatal Care."

Local arrangements for the meetings are in charge of Dr Emery, Dr. Lloyd D. Bonar and Dr. Howard B. Peck.

Counties which will be represented at the lectures are Richland, Ashland, Crawford, Delaware, Erie, Holmes, Huron Lorain, Marion, Medina, Morrow, Wayne and Knox.

JAYWALKERS WARNED

DALLAS Tex (UP)— Junior Chamber of Commerce members stand on main downtown thoroughfares daily. Every time they see a pedestrian successfully completing a jaywalk crossing of a street, they greet the jaywalker with: "Hello, Lucky!" Then the jaywalker is handed a card warning that 'You can't always be lucky.'

Book of the Week

"SIX ROOMS MAKE A WORLD," by Gove Hambidge; Whittlesey; $2.50).

There is a peculiar, very personal, quality about Gove Hambidge's books. It is perhaps the feeling the reader has that they were written without hurry, in an atmosphere of content. Not the slothful sort of content, but the richer sort which comes from living life pretty much as he wants to live it.

"Six Rooms Make a World" runs according to form. The author wants to write about life and those who live it. He really has in mind a set of brief essays on most aspects of life. But these he divides into sections and hinges each section upon a room of his house. There is work for him in the attic room, good talk and good cheer in the living room, the creature comforts in the kitchen, and so on.

The essays hinge also on the family which lives in the house. There are four, the father and mother, the two children. And the guests and the animals and the birds.

Now you know the worst, for it is a little posey to deliberately construct that sort of framework for a book so largely devoted to thought. Just the same it works. As Hambidge remarks somewhere, 9 by 12 feet is enough space for the most poignant love story. So in the struggle for a proper life by these four people in these six rooms one sees reflected the banging world, and we see them react as well. It is perhaps a rather odd angle of reflection, but the mirror does not distort.

Probably it does not distort because the author is after all not trying to present hard and fast conclusions, or to advocate (essentially) any program beyond intelligent and reasonably calm living. It is the attempt of an intelligent man to come to some conclusion about the nature of modern life and its effect upon him and his family. To do this honestly, it was essential for the author to admit puzzlement and confess uncertainties. This has been done.

Finally, although not a book about the soil and the pleasures thereof, "Six Rooms Make a World" is a justification, if an oblique one, of the Hambidge theory that man deserves and can attain, given the will, the "good life."

MAPS SERIES OF FORUM-DINNERS

C. of C. to Sponsor Monthly Meetings During Fall and Winter Season.

The Mansfield Chamber of Commerce prepared today to launch a series of dinner-forum meetings to be held monthly during the fall and winter season which will bring nationally known speakers to the city.

Paul W. Williams, secretary, said that the series will start late in September with a discussion on the subject of "Community Building."

Future meetings will be devoted to a discussion of more specific topics in connection with social and economic phases of the community, Williams said.

Trade development and expansion, the Community fund, industrial future, city government and parks and playgrounds are among the discussion topics suggested.

A special committee is to be named by the chamber within the near future to perfect plans for the series.

CHAPTER 31

NOEL WALKED slowly and thoughtfully home after leaving the restaurant. She had had such a happy day with Chris, had enjoyed every minute of it. But all the time she had been anticipating the late afternoon when she would go to the De Luxe and see Julian. She was so disappointed that he didn't come the tears were very near the surface of her eyes. But she forced them back resolutely, and told herself that she was 40 different kinds of a sap to let herself go on thinking about a man who apparently never gave her a thought.

She was so tired and depressed that she fell into bed about 9 o'clock, after doing a few of the things she always had to do in her spare time. Washing her hose and handkerchiefs, and perhaps a blouse, so they would be ready to press in the morning. Straightening up the room, for now Neel didn't let Laurie do all their simple housekeeping. A number of times Laurie had come home to find everything in spotless order, and had complimented Noel on her work. Everything had to be in order with Laurie, or else she couldn't sit down and relax.

Once Noel told her that she was a "born old maid," but, of course, she was teasing. She knew the man who married Laurie would be very lucky indeed.

Sometimes Noel smilingly told herself that she was really learning, under Laurie's tutelage, to make quite a respectable wife for a poor man. She was actually able to do her linen blouses herself, ironing them without a wrinkle. And that, Noel thought, was an achievement. She remembered how difficult it had seemed when she had first tried.

The next morning Noel awakened feeling beautifully rested. She had a long night's sleep, the first time she had slept the clock around since she had gone to work at Luigi's.

Today was Saturday and Laurie had to be at work at 7. She was up as usual, moving around, getting dressed noiselessly when Noel opened her eyes.

Noel looked at her for a while in silence. There wasn't any doubt but that Laurie was entirely well now. There wasn't any danger whatever of a relapse. But there was a sad expression in her eyes. It was there often now. Noel knew it was because of Jimmy.

She said on a sudden impulse, "Aren't you and Jimmy acting very foolish not seeing each other just because—you can't get married yet?"

The look of pain came into Laurie's face just as it always did whenever Jimmy's name was mentioned. "No," she said in a low voice, "we're only trying to be sensible. The more we see of each other, the harder it is to —to give each other up." Laurie picked up her purse and began putting the things in it that she would need during the day—a fresh handkerchief, her compact, a small comb which she had washed and sterilized last night before going to bed.

"It's simply not fair that you and Jimmy should be separated like this," Noel said rather heatedly. There were times when she felt that Joimmy's mother must be about the most selfish woman in the world.

Laurie was ready to go now. She put her little red, roll-brim hat over her dark curls, and picked up her gloves and purse. Then she looked at Noel. "We—you and I—for some reason don't seem to be lucky in love, do we?"

"Not very lucky, no," Noel said in a low voice.

"That's why I'm going to—going to—" But for some reason she couldn't finish. Her voice seemed to choke in her throat. Then she began again. "But you're lucky anyway, Noel, in having such a wonderful chance. Think of going to Hollywood. You'll probably have dozens of men in love with you when you get there."

Noel managed a little smile. The thought of having dozens of men in love with her, even if true, didn't excite her at all. "Would you like to have a dozen men in love with you?" she asked, just as Laurie was moving to the door.

Laurie shook her head. "No, only one—the real one."

She went out then, leaving Noel still busy with her thoughts. She supposed any girl in her right senses would jump at the chance of going to Hollywood. But Noel knew she never acted logically about anything. She was swayed almost entirely by her emotions. And last night, when she had told Laurie that she was going to Hollywood, she really had not meant it at all. For she wasn't certain yet that she would go, if she had the chance.

Even if Ruth Chester did succeed in marrying Julian some day, which she probably would do from all indications, Noel knew her feelings toward Julian would not change.

"Why are women such idiots about love?" she demanded of the faded wallpaper. She and Laurie, both of them, eating their hearts but because they both loved a man they could not have. And probably both of them better off, if only they knew it. But Noel quickly dismissed that thought. No use trying to be cynical, she concluded. No woman could possibly be better off without the man she loved.

Then Noel's thoughts went back to Hollywood. How could she go off and leave Ruth Chester a clear field? Not that she believed the pretty nurse could influence Julian against his will. Nobody could accuse Julian of not knowing his own mind. But Ruth Chester was clever and crafty too, and quite, quite unscrupulous as Noel had cause to know. And Julian certainly did seem gullible where she was concerned. He might not be in love with her yet. There were times when Noel was almost able to convince herself that he wasn't and times when she was almost certain he was.

After a while she decided to stop thinking. Her thoughts just seemed to go around in circles. She never could come to any definite conclusions.

About 10 she managed a bath in the uninviting tub, dressed leisurely and a little past 11 found her on her way uptown to meet Chris for lunch at the little Spanish place where they had lunched yesterday.

He was waiting outside when she came up. "You're a few minutes lake, loveliest," he said, taking her arm, "but I'll forgive you because you're looking so beautiful."

Noel smiled. She wondered if a girl could really look beautiful in a $1.98 dress?

When they were seated and Chris had ordered, he said: "You think I say things like that to you because I'm a sort of flirt, don't you?"

"Sort of—" Noel teased.

Then Chris said, his voice sounding husky. "Look at me, dear."

Noel raised her eyes questioningly to his. Then Chris put his hand across the table and closed it over hers. "You see, Noel, I'm really in love with you. Rather dreadfully so, I'm afraid."

Noel hadn't expected this. For a moment she couldn't answer. "You're such a dear," she began at last. "I'm fond of you, very fond of you, but Chris, dear, it—it isn't love."

"I'll wait," Chris said, setting back in his chair. "I won't give up hope. You see, I—I couldn't ask you to marry me now anyway, because I—well, I belong to the new poor, if you know what I mean. My father and I lost everything we had in the stock market crash. But I thought when we made good on this dancing act, we could be married then—maybe sort of secretly, if necessary. For, of course, in Hollywood you have to consider that sort of thing."

"Chris, I—I'm not sure I can go to Hollywood," Noel said unhappily.

"Not go to Hollywood? But Noel?" Chris was aghast.

"You see, I—" but Noel couldn't explain.

Chris was looking at her smilingly. "You've probably got an advanced case of stage fright," he said good-naturedly.

* * *

Noel knew that wasn't it. She also realized a little desperately that she had to make up her mind one way or the other. She couldn't go on in this state of indecision much longer. She had to decide whether she would go to Hollywood with Chris, or out to the Gatwoods' to take the position as governess. They were expecting her on Monday. She ought to let them know before then if she did not intend to go.

When they finished lunch, Chris said, "What about a long drive to the country?"

Noel was able to smile. "You do think of the nicest things," she said, the thought coming to her that the fresh air would help her to decide what was best to do.

So they went out in the country and got ludriocusly lost. For hours it seemed Chris drove the car around in a circle. At last they came across a funny little inn, had a nice country supper, and got back about 10 o'clock.

"Chris, it was fun," Noel said when they bade each other good night.

"We always have fun together," Chris said in his blithe way.

Noel went into the house, wondering why in the world she couldn't love Chris instead of Julian. Chris was such a darling, so good-natured, so gay and understanding. Any girl would be lucky to marry Chris.

Laurie was asleep, so Noel didn't even turn on the light. She undressed noiselessly and slipped into bed. And this was why she didn't see a note which lay on her pillow addressed in Julian's handwriting.

BUILDING SPURTS

Permits Issued for Two New Homes at Cost of $8,500.

Building permits totaling $9,100 had been issued at city hall today. Two of them were for the construction of new residences.

A permit was issued to Frank Konotz of 104 Massa avenue for erection of a $6,000 residence and garage, and another went to George L. Ewing of 255 Rae avenue for building a $2,500 bungalow.

A permit was also issued to W. W. and C. W. Purdy of the Purdy Construction company for making repairs costing $500 to the interior of one of the buildings of the Browning Engineering company. The Purdy company recently purchased the Browning property at sheriff's sale.

The fourth permit was granted G. H. Schrack of 219 West Fourth street, for building a porch roof at a cost of $100.

MACEDONIANS PICK DELEGATE

Mansfield Branch of People's League to Be Represented at Annual Convention.

The Mansfield branch of the Macedonian People's League will select a delegate in a few days to attend the eighth annual convention of the League to be held Sept. 4-6 at Madison, Ill., Carl Stevens, secretary, said today.

Madison, the convention city, is one of the oldest Macedonian colonies in the United States. Many of the old Macedonians there took an active part in the national-revolutionary struggle of their people against the oppression of the Sultans.

The Macedonian People's League of America points out that today Macedonia is divided between and oppressed by the three Balkan countries, Jugoslavia, Greece, and Bulgaria. The existing governments are Fascist and semi-Fascist and the people of Macedonia suffers daily under severe and unhuman persecutions, says the league.

The league points out that since Gen. Metaxes of Greece established the rule of the military fascist dictatorship two years ago, the Macedonians under Greek rule are not permitted to speak and converse in their native tongue.

Macedonians in the United States are not even permitted to write to their relatives in Greece in the Macedonian language. Letters not written in Greek are being returned to the sender in the United States or destroyed, league officials state.

The Mansfield branch of the league has headquarters at 295 North Main street with George Christoff as branch president.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vitality to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
